Charleston School Board Told Building Is Readied

CHARLESTON — The building to Charleston or for Warren E. Hearn Elementary building a dressing room at the School will be completed Aug. 1, Supt. Tom Wells said at a meeting of the R-I school board last night in the administration building. St. Louis architect, M. C. John Johansen reported to the Supt. Wells that carpeting was being installed.

In other board action, Bob R. Adams was approved to teach either in the Opportunity School or the Anniston Elementary School.

Custodians for the 1969-1970 school term will be Lloyd Anderson, Warren E. Hearn Elementary; Herbert Simpson, Charleston Junior High; Bill Wicker, Charleston High School; Harold Eastwood, Bertrand Elementary; Buy Wybar, Anniston Elementary; Elsworth Lett, administration building and kindergarten buildings. Claude Riley will clean the A. D. Simpson Bldg. and handle the mail run.

No bids have been received for moving a Wyatt school

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko condemned Red China today and made a bid for developing friendly relations with the United States.

Gromyko, in a major foreign policy speech before the Soviet parliament—said the Kremlin favors talks with Washington "to find positions of agreement both on questions of bilateral relations and on unresolved international problems."

He warned Peking that attempts to use armed force against the Soviet Union "will be met with the necessary rebuff."

Despite the belligerent tone, he expressed readiness to hold talks with China "on a wide range of questions" but gave no indication that the Mao Tse-tung leadership had shown interest.

Gromyko's one-hour and 50-minute speech showed an increased Soviet willingness to deal with Washington and a hardening hostility toward China. It apparently reflected a pro-Western change in Kremlin foreign policy following a series of bloody incidents on the Soviet-Chinese border.

The Soviet foreign minister proposed talks on Berlin to prevent trouble from flaring up there again. The Kremlin attitude toward the divided city has been considered a barometer of its interest in getting along with the West.

His bitter criticism of Peking contrasted with marked mildness toward the United States. He passed lightly over Vietnam, which used to rate long diatribes here, and used a conciliatory tone in other references to Washington, stressing the desirability of talks.

Gromyko noted that the Kremlin already has expressed willingness to discuss missile limitations with the United States. He did not mention a date or place for the talks, which Washington says are due to start in August in Vienna or Geneva.

"I would like to express the hope that the two sides will approach this question bearing in mind its paramount importance," Gromyko commented.

"We are for developing good relations with the United States and want these relations to be friendly because we believe that this would meet the interests of both the Soviet and American people."

"We took note of President Nixon's statement that in his opinion a period of confrontation is followed by an era of talks. The Soviet Union stands for talks."

"If the U.S. government continues to follow in practice this line, we are willing, as we were before, to find concerted positions both on questions of bilateral relations with the United States and on outstanding international problems."

The 60-year-old foreign minister touched upon a possible summit meeting of American and Soviet leaders. But his remark apparently indicated only that such a meeting is under consideration but no final decision has been taken.

Gromyko made no effort to disguise the importance the Kremlin attaches to China, whose 700 million people and turbulent society are removed from this country only by a disputed border more than 4,000 miles long.

"The situation in Asia and elsewhere in the world depends to a considerable extent on what aims China will serve and the way its foreign policy will be oriented," the foreign minister told parliament.

Gromyko charged the Mao Tse-tung leadership with heaping "an avalanche of abuse and insults" on the Soviet Union which, he said, "testify to their hostile intentions toward our country." He derided what he called "false territorial claims of the Chinese leaders" to parts of the Soviet Union.

Proposing Soviet-Chinese talks, Gromyko asserted: "We would like to believe that the Chinese leaders will arrive at the only correct conclusion—that incidents must be excluded, that in the relations between our countries the language of hostility and strength is inadmissible."

Mans Foot Prints History on Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "The sun and the moon and the stars," said Havelock Ellis, British man of letters, "would have disappeared long ago... had they happened to be within the reach of predatory human hands."

Ellis did not live to see it, but the moon has indeed come within the reach of humans.

At 9:32 a.m. Wednesday, July 16, anno domini 1969, three American astronauts will start off on a journey to the moon, a trip long dreamed of, long planned for. At 2:17 a.m., July 21, astronaut Neil Armstrong plans to step out of his earth-made transportation and become the first human being to set foot on the moon.

The moon, "a ghostly galleon upon cloudy seas," wrote poet Alfred Noyes. "The cold, fruitless moon," it was called by Shakespeare. "The moon is made of a green cheese," thought John Heywood in the 16th century. But when Apollo 8 splashed down in the Pacific after a Christmas orbit of the moon, astronaut Frank Borman said: "It's not made of green cheese at all. It's made of American cheese."

Armstrong and Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin are to transfer into a lunar landing ship on the historic Apollo 11 mission, leaving Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins alone in the command vehicle.

Armstrong and Aldrin will fly the lunar module — LEM — in a two-hour trip down to the moon. The landing site is the southwest corner of the Sea of Tranquility, near a crater named Moltke. It is an imaginary oval about nine miles long and four miles wide. The largest crater in the oval is about 150 feet in diameter.

The Apollo 10 astronauts reported that 20 to 30 per cent of the area is semi-clear, though pocked with thousands of small craters ranging in size from a dime to several feet. The soil, they reported, resembled wet clay.

As the LEM makes its final, dizzying approach, Armstrong and Aldrin seek out the lunar landmarks that lead them to the site. Sweeping low over the Sea of Tranquility, they see a spectacular jagged gash jutting out from crater Maskelyne A.

Minutes later, they zip over two deep rilles which look like dry river beds and which the astronauts have named Diamondback and Sidewinder. On the left is Censorinus, and on the right Maskelyne and Sabine.

Suddenly, there's Moltke and the landing zone a few miles to the right.

Oar Adventurer Faces Test

MIAMI (AP) — Sea-going adventurer John Fairfax faced the prospect of tangling with the swift currents of the Gulf Stream today as he neared the end of his transatlantic trip by rowboat.

Vigorous, smiling and trim, the 31-year-old oarsman dropped anchor Wednesday 140 miles east of Miami for a rest and a brief visit with photographers who landed in a seaplane near his 24-foot craft, the Britania.

But, he said, "I'd like to have a drink." He was given a soft drink.

His boat was a bright orange when Fairfax left the Canary Islands Jan. 20 on an attempt to become the first man to row across the Atlantic. Wednesday the craft's color was faded and bleached, but apparently remained seaworthy.

The 5-foot-6, 150-pound oarsman said he would attempt to ride the flow of the Gulf Stream northwesterly to Miami, possibly arriving late this weekend.

Apollo Countdown Set to Begin

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The lengthy countdown begins tonight for Apollo 11's journey to the moon.

At 8 p.m. EDT, the launch team will feed electrical power to the giant Saturn 5 rocket, starting the countdown clock ticking toward a liftoff at 9:32 a.m. next Wednesday.

As crews completed systems checks on the 36-story-tall rocket-spacecraft combination today, astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins planned a day-long workout in the command ship simulator, practicing the engine maneuver that shoots them out of earth orbit and sets them on a quarter-million-mile course to the moon.

They are to orbit the moon July 19, and the next day Armstrong and Aldrin are to fly a fragile lunar module (LEM) to man's first landing on the lunar surface.

Early on July 21, first Armstrong, then Aldrin step outside for an exploration period scheduled to last about 2 1/2 hours.

The countdown is 93 hours, but it is spread over 5 1/2 days. This allows for several planned holds to give the crew rest and time to correct any problems that might arise.

Tractor Driver In Accident

A Farmall tractor and auto collision Wednesday at 9 p.m. on highway 72, two and one-half miles east of Patton in Bollinger county, accounted for two injuries, the only injuries reported by the highway patrol.

A 1969 Oldsmobile, driven by Orne Finley, 49, East Prairie, ran into the rear of a Farmall tractor, driven by Leslie Klein, 45, Sedgewickville.

The collision caused the tractor to turn over, throwing the driver off, resulting in head injuries.

Finley, driver of the Oldsmobile, received chest injuries.

Both of the injured were taken to Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

I.D. Program to Undergo Change

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — After this, a 21-year-old who wants a liquor identification card in order to buy drinks legally will have to get it at liquor control headquarters in Jefferson City.

Harry Wiggins, state liquor control supervisor, said Wednesday he regretted the action but had to curtail the program because of sharp budget cuts by the Senate.

He said three full time employees who handled the program will have to be eliminated.

The I.D. card was adopted four years ago as a way for liquor store and bar operators to determine whether a customer was 21. It was the only valid proof of age a retailer could accept. The cards bear the name, address, age and photograph of the holder.

At 2:37 p.m. yesterday, firemen were called to a grass fire in the 100 block of Smith street, acting Fire Chief Dolph Webb said.

Storms Hike Flooding in Mid-Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thunderstorms that packed winds of up to 120 miles per hour, a few small tornadoes and torrential rains swept out of north central Kansas, across Missouri and into Illinois Wednesday evening, causing widespread property damage but no known injuries.

There was some flash flooding in six-county area around metropolitan Kansas City and the downtowns in the St. Louis area along the Missouri-Illinois border are sure to prolong already flooding tributaries of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

And early today another storm moved across Missouri. A tornado or high winds caused minor damage at Cement City near Independence as the storm moved eastward.

The Corps of Engineers at St. Louis said flood conditions exist in low-lying areas along the Mississippi from Louisiana, Mo., to Cape Girardeau, Mo., with several thousands acres of rich cropland inundated.

The greatest damage from the storms occurred in an industrial park area in the northeast section of Kansas City bordering the Missouri River.

Several warehouses and manufacturing plants lost roofs, doors and windows.

Jack Wilson, manager of the Masonite Center Distributing Co., said water poured through gaping holes in the firm's roof causing an estimated loss of $4- to $5-million to contents.

The National Plastics Co. reported damages of around $200,000 as wind-whipped rain

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
LET'S KEEP OUT OF THIS ONE

Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy is making no effort to hide his ambition of winning the Democratic nomination in 1972. Name an issue; he's ready to comment on it. This is as it should be. But we hope the senator is more consistent in the future than he appears to be at this point in time.

We refer to the hornet's nest he recently stirred up by injecting himself into the internal affairs of Northern Ireland. This seems out of character for the senator in light of his constant harangue against US policy in South Vietnam, a policy that escalated during his late brother's term of office.

Northern Ireland has been the scene of some bloody clashes between religious groups. There has been much bloodshed and tempers are at fever pitch. We don't take a foreign criticism of our internal strife. We are tired of foreign government officials who enjoy examining our imperfections. There are more than enough critics of our frailties right here at home.

By the same token, we sympathize with our friends in other nations who are having internal difficulties and appreciate their right to find their own solutions. The telegram sent by Kennedy to the Ulster (Ireland) Civil Rights Association supporting their cause was not in the best interests of international friendship and showed a curious lack of discretion. We wonder how any US senator can be such an expert on the internal affairs of another nation as to get into the fight in the first place. Surely the job of senator calls for full time study of our own national affairs, with little time for interference in foreign squabbles. We hope that, in the future, Senator Kennedy will use more mature judgment.

If there's anyone who has a down-to-earth approach about his job, it's an astrologer.

Instead of being regulated by the government, the people should regulate it.

Well, we know what the back side of the moon looks like. Next big job for science is to explain the miracle of photosynthesis whereby chlorophyll converts sunshine, carbon, and other ingredients into sugar.

TREATIES AND CRIME

During the 88th anniversary convention of the Tennessee Bar Association, the guest speaker, U. S. Attorney General John Mitchell, mentioned that an eminent criminologist had "suggested that society should arrange a formal truce with the organized syndicate because all efforts, so far, to weaken organized crime have failed."

On first consideration this would appear to be ridiculous suggestion for anyone to make, especially an eminent criminologist. It can't happen here? Consider these recent developments:

A black supremacy group receives anti-poverty money from the Office of Economic Opportunity. Could this be considered an economic alliance of sorts? A payoff for being good little militants?

Self-avowed communist Herbert Aptheker is hired to teach at Byrn Maw College. Perhaps this is a way of insuring against campus disorders.

A definite minority of grape pickers, not even enough to slow down the harvest after several years, carries on a boycott in supermarkets and gains support from mayors in Detroit, New York and other cities. What about the vast majority of grape workers and their employers who will be injured financially by this unfair action?

A handful of radicals takes over church office property and church leaders take no action on behalf of the parishioners who paid for the offices with their donations.

A professional football player is strongly suspected of consorting with underworld figures. The commissioner, whose duty it is to maintain the image of the sport, takes action to eliminate the implications of impropriety, but public sympathy is all with the player. Shouldn't all the facts be clear before either is condemned? Was the commissioner wrong to eliminate the appearance of a link between the sports world and the underworld?

It's time the public ceased looking the other way. Or the possibility of a treaty with crime may be closer than we think.

Who in the hell decided that Bob Gipson, ace pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, need a nick name and thought up "Gibby" surely was no friend of Gibson.

The bigger the circus, the more sense the agent has.

It is more difficult to spoil a boy by saying nice things about him than it is a girl, for a boy's companions are continually taking the conceit out of him.

NADER AND THE REDSKINS

Editor's note: Columnist Ralph De Toledano in his Washington column has taken after Ralph Nader who has been much publicized as the consumers' defender, so we reprint with permission for the other side of the controversy.

From an office on the eighth floor of the National Press Building -- no name on the door, no indication of what goes on behind the frosted glass -- Ralph Nader has run his Operation Drop Dead, grabbing every headline in sight and telling the Executive, Judicial, and Legislative branches of the government just what they should do. Mr. Nader's is an every-hour - on-the-hour proposition. Having run out of charges to make against American industry, he has most recently made himself the champion of the American Indian, offering free advice and freer criticism of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

In a free country, this is Mr. Nader's right. But it can also be asked by those who watch his free wheeling activities just who is behind them and who is putting up the cash. Running an office and a mimeograph machine in Washington costs money, but Mr. Nader seems to float through the air with very little thought of the wherewithal that keeps most of us in shoes and drinks.

How Ralph Nader became an expert on the problems

of America's red-skinned brothers is a puzzler. But it is easy to determine where he got the ammunition (so-called) to use against one of his other current targets, the Federal Trade Commission and its chairman, Paul Rand Dixon. Respected by the right, left, and center for his fairness and the excellent work he has done as head of the FTC, Mr. Dixon finds himself at the receiving end of an attack which, even in this city's political jungles, can only be described as hysterical - a smear of the type we had thought was gone from the Washington scene.

FTC Chairman Dixon needs no defense from me. In this job, he has put aside the punitive practices of his predecessors and sought to protect the consumer by means which did not require expensive and dragged-out litigation. Rather, he used logic, persuasion, and fair-minded discussion to bring American business into line where it had deviated from the straight and narrow. He proved that businessmen, who properly approached, were willing to follow fairly established guidelines without the threat of legal bludgeons.

In June of 1968, Mr. Nader approached Chairman Dixon with the suggestion that a group of students and recent law graduates wished to study the FTC. Mr. Dixon readily offered full cooperation and opened his records to them. Early in January of this year, Mr. Dixon learned from the press that a "Nader report" had been issued. It was in the hands of reporters, of Congressmen, and of almost everyone with the exception of the FTC and its chairman. (To date, Mr. Nader has never had the courtesy of sending a copy to Mr. Dixon.)

The report contended that American businessmen were basically dishonest and that they were engaged in unethical activities. These businessmen, according to Mr. Nader and his buddies, were far more harmful to America "than all the depredations of street crime" -- the murder, violence, rape, and other offenses against the citizen that have made our cities what they are today.

The Nader report also criticized Mr. Dixon and his commission because it hired lawyers and personnel from universities other than Harvard, Yale, and Princeton. This, in the eyes of the "study group," was tantamount to treason. What's more, the general makeup of the FTC staff represented the general composition of the United States, rather than that of New York, Chicago, and the other great urban centers. To Mr. Nader, this implied some kind of plot against the American consumer. Nader's Raiders also accused the FTC of incompetence, indolence and alcoholism -- nasty letter follows -- with no chapter and verse and only the high dudgeon of the "investigators" to back up the charges. Oh yes, the report also said that only 40 of the commission's 500 lawyers were Republicans -- a figure drawn out of the Washington air and based on no survey, no questionnaire, no tally.

Mr. Dixon's detailed answer to the "Nader Report" lays on the line the excellent record of the FTC since he took it over. And it may explain why Ralph Nader, described by the public prints as a "free lance lobbyist," has shifted from consumer problems to the American Indian. Mr. Nader's desperate clutch at each day's headlines has made him something of a laughing stock in Washington. His smear of a respected public official has begun to bother even the most vitriolic antibusiness groups here. Better, then, the wide open spaces. How many Indians, after all, read the Congressional Record?

Early Start. In Amarillo, Texas, a seven-year-old culprit was hauled into juvenile court for stealing $5 and seven tricycles. In Franklin, La., a 14-year-old ninth-grader was arrested for cashing two checks she had made out as an arithmetic assignment. In Roanoke, Va., Sherman Lovelace, facing charges of illegally wearing a Navy uniform and possessing an Army discharge, was convicted of polygamy (three wives) at the age of 17.

A release by the Iowa Public Service Company shows that the average age today is not quite 28; in 1950 it was 30-plus. It is likely to go up again with the decline in births.

A Sikeston man of 38 was described as a promising young man. When does a man cease to be young?

NEW YORK (AP) — She is still tiny, still vibrant, still beautiful. But at 22, celebrating her 15th anniversary in show business, child star Patty Duke is definitely no longer a child star. She is now a mature mite 5 feet tall — weight 88 pounds — and anxious to tackle mature roles.

"When I was younger it used to bother me that I was so small," she said. "It doesn't anymore, although I suppose it wouldn't hurt if I were a couple of inches taller."

In her latest film "Me Natalie," she plays a love-awakened 18-year-old girl moving about in the world of the wounded young.

Patty is planning soon to move from the West Coast back to Manhattan, where she was born in Bellevue Hospital on Dec. 14, 1946. Her father was a cab driver, her mother a restaurant cashier.

At 7 Patty started her phenomenal acting career. In the busy years that followed she appeared in several plays, more than 50 television shows, and a number of movies. A landmark of her life, of course, was the winning of an Oscar in 1963 as "best supporting actress" for her part in "The Miracle Worker."

Then only 16, she was the youngest person ever to receive the award. Inevitably, Patty's childhood wasn't a normal one, but she doesn't feel her early stardom left any permanent emotional scars.

"I have some regrets, but the good outweighs the bad," she said. "I'd like to have spent more time in school, but I was given greater opportunities."

A few days after the maiden lady had an outhouse built, she called the bearded old carpenter back on the job and made a complaint. "What's the trouble?" he asked. "The walls and roof seem sturdy." She answered, "It ain't that..." After more inspecting he stuck his head down in one of the holes of the two-holer. Then, as he pulled his head out, he caught his whiskers in a tiny crack and hollered, "Ouch!" She said, "Ah! Now you see! It's happened to ME... TWICE SO FAR!"

Victory for Billboards
The federal government pays a bonus to states that ban billboards along the Interstate freeways. Iowa is one of them. Public Roads and the Iowa State Highway Commission opened two "Infosites" along Interstate 80 near Iowa City.

The Infosites are large buildings adjacent to rest areas, well-lighted heated and air conditioned with numerous panels for commercials. It was expected that advertisers would welcome the opportunity to display their messages at the Infosites and that travelers would flock to them for information.

What happened was quite different, reports Highway User Magazine. The advertisers simply moved their signs back of the legal limit and made them that much bigger. Only 20 per cent of the advertising space in the Infosites was sold, and of 4,000 travelers interviewed in a survey, 80 to 90 per cent said they got all the information they needed from the billboards.

So much for one battle in the campaign to beautify America.

Wife: "Why don't you shave before you go to bed?"

Bonnie: "Romantic, my foot! He's in training to be a bus driver."

A man walked into a bar and ordered a bourbon. Slugging it freeways, Iowa is one of them. Some 16 months ago, it ordered close the "information gap" that was expected to develop because of the absence of signs "I feel like a lion!" and beating advertising eating and sleeping his chest ordered another drink, facilities, the U.S. Bureau of which he gulped as swiftly as the

From the other end of the bar a little faggot responded "Moocoo...!"

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: U.S. fances critical drought for lack of planning? Washington voted billions for moon shot while Potomac dried up; did Nixon's doctor get permission to report on Presidential stability?

WASHINGTON—Along the Atlantic seaboard right now are two illustrations of man's efficiency in achieving the thrills of life and man's inefficiency in not achieving the necessities of life.

At Cape Kennedy, the United States is about to launch the most carefully rehearsed, most expensive, most unnecessary project of this century by which man will reach a piece of drab, radioactive, lava-like real estate hitherto romantic because of distance—the moon.

The launching will succeed because a vast amount of money and the best scientific brains in America over a period of seven years have been lavished on this moon shot. Meanwhile, the Atlantic coast, the capital which voted the twenty billion dollars to reach the moon is desperately short of the second essential to man's life-water—all because of lack of planning, lack of foresight, and lack of money—the same ingredients which have put the moon shot on the verge of success.

The Potomac river from which the capital of the United States draws its water is gradually drying up. Its upper reaches are so shallow that rocks stick out of the stream bed like the bones of starving old woman. Drained by communities and real estate development along its banks, he upper potomac is starving.

Below, as it flows through Washington, the once majestic river has become an open sewer. Two hundred and forty million gallons of human excrement, detergents, wash water and industrial waste are poured daily into the river. The sewage is only partially treated.

Not even fish can live long in this poisonous water. The days when small boys played and cavorted off the splashed Alexandria are no more. The bacteria count is 100 times higher than the level considered safe for swimming.

—Unnecessary Delay—

However, none of this had to happen. Twenty-five years ago the Roosevelt administration foresaw the fact that growing Washington would need more water, and the Army engineers prepared a comprehensive plan for a far-flung system of dams and reservoirs on the Potomac and its tributaries.

Immediately there was an outcry from real estate interests and big farmers whose land would be inundated. The plan was shelved. It was revived under Kennedy, only to be shelved again. This time the conservationists joined the real estate interests.

There was talk of small dams instead of big ones—dams which would not spoil the river's natural beauty. But nothing was done. There was a lot of talk. A tri-state commission was appointed. Surveys were made. Commissions traveled up and down the river, inspected the Virginia and Maryland tributaries. But nothing happened.

So for lack of planning, lack of action, lack of money, the once full-bosomed, beautiful Potomac has become an emaciated old lady, her bones protruding, smelly, unkempt, unsightly.

And water is short all over the Capital of the United States while the same government which has neglected its own front yard reaches for the moon.

—A National Problem—
The plight of the Potomac is not confined to the Capital alone. It illustrates what is happening all over the United States, from New York City where drinking water is still not served in restaurants, to Chicago which is reaching further and further into Lake Michigan for its water.

Gradually at first, but now accelerating rapidly as the population grows, water is becoming a proborem. Yet the same ingenuity used in reaching the moon would solve our water problems.

There is an illustration. Russia has reversed the direction of some of its great rivers which flow into the Barren Arctic where they freeze and are wasted. What a communistic nation can do, presumably a capitalistic nation can do—if it eschews politics.

For less money than it takes to reach the moon, the Missouri River could be diverted westward at around Omaha and made to flow through the parched plains of Nebraska, Kansas and Texas instead of adding its vast volume to the already brimful Mississippi.

What the nation needs, however, is a water pollution czar who can look ahead, make plans, spend money, as the moon-shooters have done. Until that time, the city of Washington will be periodically starved for water, as will other cities of this short-sighted nation.

—Nixon's Doctor Reports—
Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker, the New York psychiatrist, takes the occasion of an article in Look Magazine to discuss President Nixon's mental stability and tke a sideswipe at me regarding the inquiry I made of Hutschnecker during last fall's election campaign.

The results of my inquiry of Dr. Hutschnecker were not published during the campaign but came out later during a question-and-answer period at the national press club.

Dr. Hutschnecker makes himself out to be a very tight-lipped psychiatrist. But since he has raised the issue, he did not give me that impression when I talked to him last fall.

Also, this is a story of angry black workingmen -- not the trigger - happy Panthers, but the men of the ghettos who want to get a piece of the well-paying push any unions around. But action (as they call it) but find neither does he want America's unions. No one could get into closed program pushed around. He has whether Dr. Hutschnecker some of them with a division of the medical profession by getting books are closed so the rank and file can control the labor market and force the contractor to find that Mr. Romney has some pledge specific amounts of unity behind him too.

Team to elect a chairman who pledges members to deliver 20 minutes weekly to make freedom workable. One may spend 20 minutes on Monday, another Tuesday, and others select one of the four succeeding weekdays. Each names an alternate, who may be a spouse. Members, on their chosen weekdays, phone six acquaintances suggesting they use the goods and services which advertisers offer on patriotic media. Each team should decide for itself the most worthy causes. The goals of different teams may differ. Each should promote freedom and capitalize on the turn to the Right.

A "spirit of crusade" develops and each team is organized in promoting patriotism. Each Team of 6 is a crusade of two hours weekly; a thousand Teams, 2,000 hours per week, may decide an issue in a sizable city. Ten thousand Teams, 20,000 hours, could sway a metropolis to the Truth-side.

Many things remain to be done if the turn to the Right is to bear fruit and save Republic USA. Our Founding Fathers built this land from a wilderness which barely supported a few hundred thousand poor souls. The Founders built the foundations enabling us to escape from periodic famine which plagued the rest of the world and still destroys the lives of millions each year.

We built our land on principles of individuals initiative and the profit-motive system. Disrupters like SDS, Maoists and other communist and communist-leaning groups would return Republic USA to tyranny and famine such as the communists "enjoy."

Constructive citizens who would resist can joyfully turn to Teams of 2 to 6 and overcome those who would destroy freedom and our Republic USA. HLH COURT IS NOT SUPREME

With crime running rampant it is high time the U.S. Supreme Court, and all courts, commence to recognize the rights of all citizens to be safe in their persons, homes, workplaces, schools and property. The appointment of a Chief Justice strong on law and order is a step in the right direction but is not a cure for the accumulated excesses.

The U.S. Constitution empowers Congress to preclude the Supreme Court from accepting appeals from lower courts of those convicted of certain crimes. The Founding Fathers, who handed down to us this greatest nation yet created, did not visualize court decisions of 4-to-3 or 5-to-4 being allowed to override the plain words of the Constitution and laws passed pursuant thereto.

The people elect 100 Senators, one-third every two years, and 435 Congressmen, each of whom must face his electorate every four years. The 50 states likewise elect 1,964 State Senators and 5,594 Legislators to write their laws at state and local level. The U.S. Supreme Court has given much lip-service in recent years to a "pure democracy" theory of "one-man one-vote" yet arrogates to four or five of its nine appointed judges the right to override these thousands of elected delegates chosen by the people to write their laws.

Republic USA continues to be in danger as long as four or five men, appointed for life, are allowed to rewrite law, loose confessed murderers and rapists upon helpless citizens, and free subversives to disrupt and destroy our colleges, industrial plants and defense.

Congress should face up to the challenges thrown down by these four or five judges and reassert its abdicated constitutional authority. Each voter is represented in Congress by two Senators and one Congressman. Concerned voters who do not wish to see their Republic destroyed and their Congress become as powerless as Russia's "legislative" body, can send letters to their editor in Congress to take a stand before it is too late.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Twisting the screws: overtime at double time.

Who can control the rank and file. Not the national leaders. They don't have their "In the old days," said one of their own set recently, "we had power. Now we just don't have the intangible force, or the old rough and ready dictate to bring the younger men into line. And if we did have the power, the old authority, we would get hit by the courts under Title I, Landrum - Griffin with its built-in Bill of Rights giving the rank and file the right to tell us to go to hell after we've made a pact. They don't want advice. They want their money and they want it now."

So, a lot of other men are becoming furious. If the building craftsmen wants tough action, he'll get it. If he won't listen to his national union leaders, there are other national leaders who will make him listen.

And one of those national fellows is Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney. He's tough -- and not only because he rises at 4:30 a.m., trots two miles and has his staff in at seven for a breakfast discussion on the day's plans.

Secretary Romney wants housing built on an assembly line basis. There's been a breakthrough with the carpenters who've agreed to work with the new Stirling Home-Ex instant housing company anywhere in the nation -- to build and erect prefabricated homes.

Mr. Romney says candidly he is sick of practices such as those of some seven and eight dollar an hour crafts which insist that men stand idly alongside automated machinery, watch it work and then take home almost $300 a week for doing virtually nothing.

Mr. Romney is sick of getting pledges of cooperation from national building and construction labor leaders only to receive reports from the field that the local business agent could not care less and won't sign a contract for less than a 40-cent job increase -- or won't man a job without a guarantee of globs of heavily paid overtime.

So Mr. Romney has drawn up a tough set of recommendations for handling work restrictions imposed by local unions, and strikes and jurisdictional conflicts. And the HUD Secretary has outlined some tough legislation which could show the rank and file that the government can be as tough as they are -- implausible as that may sound to some business agent in the big cities or Black Fork Mesa someplace.

This report was sent along to the White House on July 3 -- in a burst of pre-Independence Day indignation.

Mr. Romney doesn't want to push any unions around. But neither does he want America's unions. No one could get into closed program pushed around. He has whether Dr. Hutschnecker some of them with a division of the medical profession by getting books are closed so the rank and file can control the labor market and force the contractor to find that Mr. Romney has some pledge specific amounts of unity behind him too.

Pretty Feet

Now, to give yourself a full-scale pedicure follow these rules:

Work a little tropical moist oil of Olay into and around the nails so that cuticle skin is softened and you can gently ease it back.

Trim or file your toe nails straight across to discourage in-growing corners. Before applying polish cleanse the nails with cotton soaked in a little lemon freshener.

Separate the toes by weaving a tissue between them so that they are spread apart to prevent smudging. Apply two coats of varnish from cuticle to tip and finally brush a coat of colorless sealer to protect the finish. Toe-nails look loveliest when a pale pink frosted polish is used.

Golden Anniversary Celebrated

By Carl C. and 'Dot' Harris

A Golden Anniversary of treasured thoughts and memories that a life together for 50 years brings was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Harris, 407 Virginia, at a surprise party held in their honor at Holiday Inn, July 3, 1969.

It was Ralph Waldo Emerson who said that "We did not find our friends; the good God gave them to us" and it certainly expressed the feelings of Carl and Dot Harris from the looks on their faces when they unawares entered a room full of only family and very close friends. Amidst the glow of candle-light and an orchestra softly playing the Anniversary Waltz, the celebration started with the regal couple escorted to Missouri. Carl C. Harris is a World War 1 veteran. He was a commissioned officer in the U.S. Army Infantry and stationed in France. At the end of the war, and almost immediately upon his return from overseas duty and still in uniform, he married Dona Belle Quinn in Louisville, Ky., July 3, 1919. Carl always refers to his wife as his Kentucky "Belle," which she truly is. Dona or "Dot" as she is known to many friends is loved by all who know her. She has a remarkable sense of humor and her laughter so warm and real that it is contagious to anyone around her.

When Carl was asked if he held any one particular thought for the future, he very quickly gave this statement: "I wish, hope and desire that this country can return to a little ordinary sanity." Mr. Harris has been engaged in commercial sales work different types during past 50 years. ## Ann Landers Convinced There's a Curse

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old son turned up at the breakfast table with his hair tinted red. My husband almost hit him. I am in a state of shock. It seems Larry let his girl friend "experiment" on him. When we told Larry we were horrified he said the color of a person's hair shouldn't make THAT much difference.

Larry's hair used to be a golden blond and now he looks as if he is wearing a wig. The girl also tried to dye his eyebrows and one eyebrow is redder than the other. He looks like a freak. We didn't say much when he let his hair grow longer on the sides (it's really shorter than most of his friends) but this latest move is too much. What shall we do?

--- Buffalo Parents
Dear Buff: It's his hair and his problem. Larry will get plenty of needling from his friends. You won't have to do anything. Time and patience are your best allies.

Dear Ann Landers: Four months ago my wife's parents moved to this city - five blocks from us and across the street from another daughter. They are not old people, Ann. They are in their early 50's, yet they have developed no interests and no friends, only us. My wife's sister got smart after the folks had been in town only six weeks. She insisted that her husband request a transfer. They moved out of the state and now we have them all the time. By "all the time" I mean five nights a week - and it's murder.

My wife is as fed up as I am. I am writing at her request. Can you help us? --- Over-Visited

Dear Over: Sorry, I can't help you. I'm here. But your wife is there. She can help herself - and I hope she will. Here's how. She should introduce her parents to people their own age. For openers, I suggest a small party to which she can invite the parents of your friends. If this doesn't work, you and your wife should make plans and announce in advance that you are busy with previous commitments.

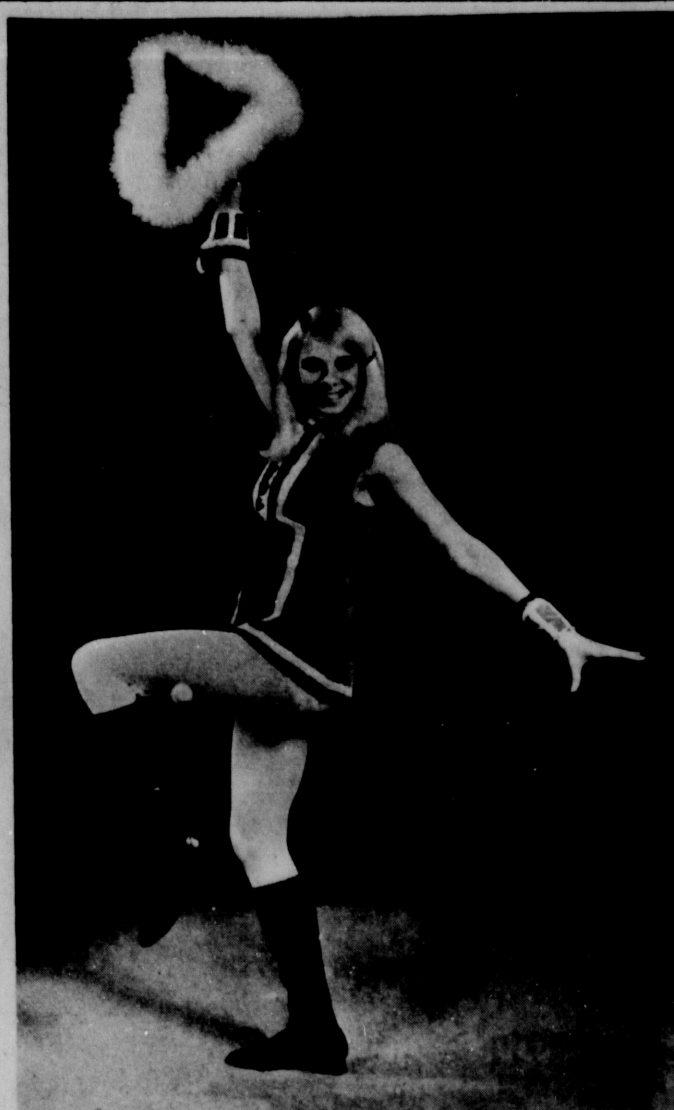

Dear Ann Landers: Can getting mooched on run in the family? My Dad is the Number One target for relatives who want to borrow luggage, golf clubs, garden tools, etc. My mother has been driving "the girls" to their weekly club meeting for so long they don't even say "thank you."

I inherited the family curse when I bought a new car seven months ago. A certain guy who works for the same company has figured out the exact minute I will pass his house. Every work day for the last five months Miltie the Moocher has been out in front just in time to hook a ride. When I get in my car to go home at night Miltie is already sitting in it, waiting for me.

Wouldn't you think he'd slip me a couple of bucks for gas once in a while or maybe offer to fill the tank? Would I be in line if I suggested it? --- El Jerque

Dear El: Of course, Miltie should offer something in the way of compensation, but since he hasn't, don't suggest it. If his cheapness bothers you, change your travel route. In the meantime, how many of you readers who ride free to work are demonstrating your appreciation by crashing through with an occasional token of gratitude?

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell

Miss Connie Ann Campagna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Campagna, is attending a ten day twirling clinic at Arkansas State University, Jonesboro. Miss Campagna, a junior at Sikeston High School, began twirling last year and was omitted from the group pictured printed in Tuesday's Standard

The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League hopes to roll out the old home run cannon to try to snap the National League's six-game win streak in the July 22 All-Star game at Washington with sluggers like Reggie Jackson and Frank Howard in the starting line-up.

The big surprise in the lineup, announced Wednesday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was the absence of Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, the third base starter five years in a row. Brooks gave way to Sa Bando of the Oakland A's. Baltimore, breezing along in the Eastern Division, wound up with outfielder Frank Robinson and first baseman John "Boog" Powell in the starting eight (pitchers are picked later). Oakland, running second to Minnesota in the Western Division, also had a pair—Bando at third and Jackson in the outfield.

Rico Petrocelli, Boston's shortstop who has developed into a long ball threat, topped the balloting of players, managers and coaches with 266 votes. The next best was Jackson's 260. Players were not permitted to vote for their own teammates.

Howard, the giant-sized Washington slugger who is fighting with Jackson for the home run title, was one of three repeaters from the 1968 starting line-up. The others were catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, the current batting leader.

Baltimore and Oakland each had two starters and Minnesota, Boston, Washington and Detroit one each. By divisions the East had five, the West three.

Members of the National League's starting line-up will be announced Friday afternoon. The remainder of the 26-man squads, including pitchers, will be selected by the managers and announced over a 10-day period.

Mayo Smith, who led Detroit to the pennant last year, will manage the Americans against Red Schoendienst, his World Series rival as skipper of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The vote for third base was close with Bando beating Brooks Robinson 163-126. At first it was Powell over Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota 210-96. Killebrew also got 33 votes for third base although the players were told to vote for a man at only one position. Bando won over Tommy Harper of Seattle, 255-2 in the second base competition involving nine players. Petrocelli had a 26-18 edge over Mark Belanger of Baltimore at short and Freehan beat out John Roseboro of Minnesota 155-74 for the catching job.

Outfielders were not named by position. The top men were Jackson, 260, Frank Robinson, 250, and Howard, 169. Next best was Paul Blair of Baltimore, 88. The 1968 starters who did not make it were Killebrew at first, Brooks Robinson at third, Jim Fregosi of California at short and Willie Horton of Detroit and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, winner of two straight league batting titles, in the outfield. Any or all may be picked later by Manager Smith.

CRICKETS were used as bait by Mr. and Mrs. Carol Gaines, 104 Jackson St., at Duck Creek Tuesday where they caught 104 Brim and Bluegill.

Mets Trim Lead; Cards Split

By HAL BÖCK Associated Press
Their dizzying dash towards Willie Stargell, eight-inning pinch double by Diego, Airtight relief by Pedro Ramos and Wayne Granger in the late innings saved the victory for Jim Merritt.

Bill Singer pitched a four-hitter and Los Angeles tightened its grip on first place in the West Division by knocking off Atlanta. Manny Mota, who went 8-for-10 in Tuesday's doubleheader sweep against the Braves, added three more hits Wednesday.

Home runs by Joe Torre, Vada Pinson and Lou Brock earned the split for the Cardinals, with Brock's two-run shot in the ninth cracking a 3-2 Phillie lead.

The Giants, held to one hit for seven innings by Denny Lemaster, exploded for four runs in the seventh and then got a bases-loaded homer by Bob Dietz in the eighth to whack Mets.

Tommy Helms cracked a single, two doubles and a triple, Houston.

BATTING - Tommy Helms, Reds, collected a single, two doubles and a triple, driving in one run and scoring two as Cincinnati edged San Diego 4-3.

PITCHING - Tom Seaver, Mets, retired the first 25 Chicago batters but settled for a one-hitter - Jim Qualls' clean single - and a 4-0 victory over the Cubs.

Seaver drove in a run with a second-inning single as the Mets jumped on Ken Holtzman, knocking out the Cub left-hander and taking a 3-0 lead in the first two innings.

Then Seaver became a oneman show, retiring the Cubs 12-3 in every inning. He struck out five of the first six batters he faced and fanned 11 for the catching job.

Randy Hundley bunted Seaver's first pitch in the ninth inning and the pitcher threw him out for the 25th Cub to go down in order. Then Qualls rapped the next pitch for the hit. Seaver then retired the next two hitters easily to end the game.

He termed the one-hitter "a disappointment" but around the Mets, that word is commonplace. If every disappointment was a one-hitter, they'd never complain.

Pittsburgh swept the Expos, winning the first game on Richie Hebner's leadoff triple in the 10th inning and a one-out single by Jose Martinez and then

Congressmen Find War, Taxes Clashing Sex Priorities Uppermost on Voters' Minds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two members of Congress, home to test the flow of voter opinion, found an electorate preoccupied with two hopes—a fast end to the Vietnam war and a quick reduction in taxes.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., found no similar voter concentration on the debate over the advisability of deploying President Nixon's proposed antiballistic missile system.

The message they did hear can be summed up by two questions both men were most often asked:

"What are you going to do about taxes and spending?" and "When are we going to settle the war?"

Myers, 42, elected last November to his second House term, and Proxmire, 53, who is increasingly laying claim to the title of prime Senate advocate of a tight rein on defense spending, heard the questions at Independence Day parades, fish fries, horse shows, fireworks displays, and at fair grounds and shopping centers.

"It takes some time to really know how people are responding to a specific issue like the antiballistic missile," said Proxmire, an ABM opponent.

"That's because a lot of the things you get asked about are topical—the thing that was in the evening papers yesterday." But, he went on to say, "This Vietnam thing is deeper and stronger. And people, I think, are very sensitive to what's happening to their taxes. All of these older and retired people we met today—they're paying property tax and personal tax and school taxes, state tax, federal tax, sales tax, excise tax and surtax."

"It adds up to a whole lot," And of course they don't like it."

Dismounting from a horse named Rudy after a Friday morning parade through Terre Haute, his district's largest city, Myers, was given a theme he heard over and over again throughout his long day of event hopping.

"Most people feel the war has gone on too long, but we don't feel it in the American tradition to agree to dishonorable peace," he was told.

The next morning, Saturday, in West Allis, an industrial suburb of Milwaukee, Proxmire also heard a lot about Vietnam.

Many of those who spoke up urged speedy withdrawal.

"I fought in World War II," a 65-year-old Hales Corners, Wis. engineer told Proxmire. "I had no question but what that was the thing to do."

"But I wouldn't serve in Vietnam and, if it comes to that, I don't think my 26-year old son will either. If he made his own decision to resist the draft I'd support him in any way I could."

In Indiana, driving from the

Clashing Sex Priorities Rated Divorce Factor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sex is No. 2 in a man's priorities for selecting a mate but No. 6 on the woman's list and that's the reason 75 per cent of American marriages are a bust, according to an eminent psychologist.

"When a man gazes into a woman's eyes with what they think is love and devotion they are not seeing the same thing," Dr. Clifford Rose Adams, professor emeritus of Penn State University, added in a report based on 30 years of research.

"Odds on any marriage being a success are shorter than those of hitting the jackpot on a pinball machine in Las Vegas," Adams, 66, a consultant for Encyclopaedia Britannica and numerous scientific publications, presented his latest findings to the Identity Research Institute here after studying 6,000 couples.

"Since the sex revolution following World War II sexual satisfaction has been much more important to the male than to the female," the professor said.

"Companionship is the first subconscious factor influencing the male in mate selection. The, in order, come sex, love-affection, sentiment in a single category, home and family, a helpmate (one giving encouragement) and, lastly, security."

"For the woman the first things she seeks are love, affection and sentiment. She has to feel loved and wanted. The second is security, then companionship, home and family, community acceptance and, sixth, sex."

"So you see man and woman do not see eye-to-eye. How can

Med Insurance Pays For Some Home Equipment

Many people under Medicare are asking if medical insurance helps pay for medical equipment for home use. According to Clifford Forsee, social security district manager at Cape Girardeau, medical insurance helps pay for renting or buying durable medical equipment for use in the home when it is prescribed by a doctor. This includes such items as hospital beds, oxygen tents, wheelchairs and other equipment primarily used for medical care and which can be used repeatedly. Medicare cannot pay for extra or deluxe features that are not medically necessary.

Whether a person buys or rents the equipment, Medicare will ordinarily make payments monthly. The payments are 80 percent of the reasonable rental charges after the $50 annual deductible has been met. If a person rents the equipment, payments will be made for as long as the equipment is medically needed. If the equipment is purchased payments will be made until (1) the amount Medicare pays has equaled 80 percent of the reasonable purchase price or (2) the medical need ends, whichever occurs first.

Forsee pointed out that the patient decides whether to buy or rent durable medical equipment. He should first discuss the matter with his doctor to find out about how long the equipment will be needed. It's important to remember that the Medicare payments will stop when the medical need for the equipment ends. If the patient decides to buy equipment and agrees to pay for it over a period of time, he or the family may still be paying for it after the Medicare payments stop.

Caldwell Pleads Guilty In Bluff Counterfeit Case

POPLAR BLUFF — Nelson Eddy Caldwell, operator of the defunct Allied Printers Associates in Poplar Bluff, has pleaded guilty to two of four counts of a federal counterfeiting indictment. Sentencing has been set for July 25 in St. Louis before U.S. District Court Judge Roy Harper.

Caldwell pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of counterfeit federal reserve notes, which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in federal prison and a fine of $5,000, or both; and to a second charge of transferring and delivering the same notes, which carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in federal prison and a fine of $5,000, or both.

Assistant U.S. Atty. William F. Murrell told the Daily American Republic today that Caldwell could face a total maximum punishment of 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Caldwell, age 28, was arrested March 4 by local officers and an agent of the U.S. Secret Service following a search of Caldwell's premises at the southwest corner of Pine Boulevard and Ninth Street in Poplar Bluff.

Murrell said the other two federal charges, alleging possession of the plates used to print counterfeit money, and possession of some other counterfeit notes, were dismissed.

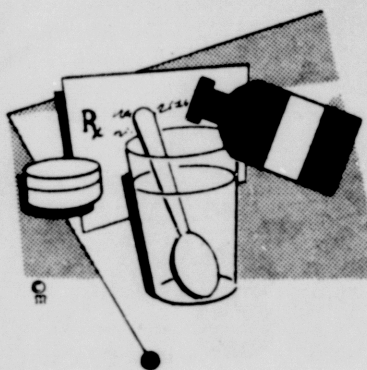

Involved in the charges to which Caldwell pleaded guilty were 115 phony $5 bills, 156 $10 bills, and 177 $20 bills, Murrell said. The federal prosecutor said Caldwell pleaded guilty to possessing the bills and passing them to a juvenile confederate for distribution.

"I'm one of the lucky ones, senator," a 55-year old construction laborer said. "I'm going to have my house paid off this year."

"But what about the youngsters?" he asked. "The interest rate is 8 1/2 per cent now and a young man has to actually pay about 10 per cent to get a home loan if he can get one at all. Don't those people in Washington see what they're doing to young families?"

Myers, a relative newcomer to congressional politics, won his first House race in 1966 at the age of 38. He won again last November by 38,000 votes.

His congressional district, Indiana's 7th, takes in 15 counties, 6,500 square miles in a land mass that extends 175 miles down Indiana's western border and 90 miles across into the Indianapolis suburbs.

It's one of Indiana's most varied congressional districts, Myers said. Ticking off statistics on limestone and coal deposits, apple and peach orchards, the rolling farm land, the five state parks, the industry, the large naval munitions plant—"they just loaded their three millionth bomb"—and the colleges.

With a combined student body of 50,000 the colleges form enclaves visibly distinct from the surrounding communities, Myers said.

And although he says protest demonstrations, notably at Indiana University in Bloomington, have been relatively mild, community tensions have been created.

The World Almanac notes that the amount (principal and interest) still owed to the United States from loans made to 17 friendly nations during World War I was over $21 billion as of June, 1967. The amount of the original debt was $12 billion. In 1953, the United States agreed that no further payments need be made until final settlement of German World War I reparations, a settlement precluded as long as Germany is divided.

At the end of an American Legion parade in Bloomington, a legionnaire driving a car filled with dignitaries overheard someone remark that there had been no protests at all along the flag-filled route.

"They better not protest, by God," he said. "We'd shoot 'em."

Later a man who says he sells rubbish disposal equipment approached Proxmire and told him: "Let's get the Sam Hell out of Vietnam and call it a moral victory," that's what I say."

"We've been there for at least eight years now," another man told the senator. "We can train an American combat soldier in six months or less. If we can't train an effective Vietnamese fighting force in eight years we should get out."

1-In Memoriam

In Memoriam

I write in memory of Hardy

Wilson Duke who passed away May 18, 1969. Born and reared on the farm, he was a country boy at heart all to his home until the last. A quiet sheltered by trees and surrounded by field and meadow. The sound of birds singing, and the buzzing of bees, were music to his ears.

Though he no longer tilled the soil, he loved the farm and all that stood for. Springtime for planting and autumn for the reaping of the harvest, for it was then he could see the fruit of his labors. The barn still stands, a reminder of bygone days, when the crops were filled to overflowing. The blossom on the cotton and the silk on the corn, were more beautiful than the florists' greenhouse.

Inside the home was comfort, cleanliness and thriftiness. The well-worn Bible turned by fingers

now stilled, and blurred with tears of eyes now closed, was the guide of his life. He had reached the eventide of life, and had grown rich in the faith. Kindness was a way of life with him. Never too busy to share a burden, or listen to a problem, he was a blessing to many. His love for children was evident, as he could never pass up the opportunity to hold a baby, or say a word to a little

one. He possessed great understanding as a parent and as a friend. To him "children" were an heritage of the Lord and he was a firm believer in "train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." He also believed that "except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." Never ashamed of the gospel of Christ, he was a blessing to his pastor and fellow members of

Maple Grove Baptist Church. The house of God was precious to him, and I believe Psalm 27:4 would have been a favorite verse. "One thing

I desire of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord and to enquire in his temple." Surely the Master greeted him with these words, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." To those of us who knew him and loved him, he was truly a

"sermon in shoes."

He is gone but not forgotten.

Never shall his memory fade.

Round the grave where he is laid.

Be sure to keep picnic food cool (50 degrees F or below) to avoid ptomaine poisoning, typhoid, etc. Germs in food multiply alarmingly in 50 to 130 degree temperatures, as in a hot auto trunk or in sunshine. Hamburger, potato salad, creamy pastries and ham are most vulnerable.

Honorable Mayor and City Council

City of Sikeston

Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the general fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1969, and the related statement of revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston at April 30, 1969, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

Slot Machines Cause Trouble

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.

Max smoked a big cigar and wore an even bigger smile. And he had good reason. He operated a fancy plush restaurant in which he maintained a battery of "one-armed bandits."

The biggest bandit of them all, however, was Max. Catering to glib customers, Max had the machines so rigged that no one could possibly win. In fact, by judiciously tampering with them he had reduced the odds against his losing to the absolute minimum; to wit, zero.

Thus, until he was arrested for violating an ordinance that made it a crime to keep gambling devices, Max smoked his big cigars and took in the coin of the realm with absolute confidence.

"I can't be convicted of violating that ordinance," insisted Max in court. "My machines aren't gambling devices. To be a gambling device, you've got to have winners and losers with an element of chance. With my machines, there's no element of chance whatsoever. I always win and my customers always lose."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Max of illegally keeping gambling devices?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the intention of the law was to repress the gambling propensity, the very propensity that Max's machines were designed to stimulate. And, concluded the judge, the fact that his customers couldn't win was no defense since there was nothing to stop them from hoping they might win.

BEEF CATTLE FACILITIES

FIELD DAY AUGUST 1

Performance of beef cattle on feed under different feedlot conditions will be the main feature of a 1969 Beef Cattle Facilities Day.

The Beef Cattle Facilities Day is sponsored by the University of Missouri - Columbia, and it will be held at the UMC Weldon Spring Center. The Center is located in St. Charles County 1 1/4 miles southwest of US 40 on Missouri 94.

The day's program begins at 9:30 a.m. Friday, August 1. It will be held regardless of weather conditions.

During the Beef Cattle Facilities Day visitors at the Weldon Spring Center will have the opportunity to see the different facilities used in current research. There are two confinement feeding barns at the Center and outside feeding lots that have different surfaces, shade, fences, and feeding areas. Cattle gains in the different lots are compared to measure the difference facilities made in cattle feeding operations.

Lunch will be available at the Center. All persons interested in beef cattle feeding are invited to attend the event August 1.

Senator's Son Enjoys Summer Farmhand Job

BRULE, Neb. (AP) — Far from the hustle of Manhattan, the son of Sen. Jacob K. Javits is spending part of his summer vacation as a Nebraska farmhand and finding it "very rewarding doing an honest day's work."

"You know, all we New Yorkers know about Midwesterners is their politics. And that is usually conservative. But we don't know why," said Joshua Javits, 19, a Yale University junior whose father is New York's senior Republican senator.

"So I'm finding out," young Javits continued, "not as a strengthened through works that day that my faith may be by express through me Thy love and compassion. In Jesus' name. Amen."

The work ranges from ranching and sheep raising to overseeing irrigated and dry land corn, beans, wheat and alfalfa. "Everybody talks about the land," he said. "But to me the sky here is just incredible. Back in New York we don't get to see much of it for the buildings."

"Social relations are so easy here—there is none of the gruffness of New York."

What does he think of farming?

"You have to be a little of everything," he said. "I even had to help Roger operate on a sheep, besides all the other things a farmer or rancher has to know."

"I can really appreciate the farmer's problems. It sure takes a lot more brains and perseverance than I thought."

KEEP WARM TO LIVE

LONDON (AP) — Up to 90,000 people a year die in Britain for lack of proper heating, according to medical expert Dr. Geoffrey Taylor.

Taylor's statistics show that in the six cold months of the years 1964-67 there was an average of 60,000 more deaths than in the six warm months.

Taylor suggested that people who live in warm houses live up to five years longer than those in cold, draughty houses.

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) - Marine Pfc. Delbert "Duff" Brimmer had been in Vietnam about a month when his parents received this letter:

"I knew somehow when I left for Vietnam that I wouldn't be coming back, mom and dad. Don't grieve for me - instead grieve for these poor, depressed and undeveloped countries.

"Grieve also for the other nations of the world, for they do not realize they are slowly but surely destroying our world.

"Perhaps by giving my life to help end this war, I have given the world a little boost towards the goal of brotherly love.

"If I have, then I feel I have fulfilled my obligation to God, my country and the Corps - and most of all to my parents.

"What more can a man hope to do in life."

The 20-year-old Brimmer was killed in action June 30. He will be buried in Ludington today.

Mans Foot Prints History on Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "The sun and the moon and the stars," said Havelock Ellis, British man of letters, "would have disappeared long ago... had they happened to be within the reach of predatory human hands."

Ellis did not live to see it, but the moon has indeed come within the reach of humans.

At 9:32 a.m. Wednesday, July 16, anno domini 1969, three American astronauts will start off on a journey to the moon, a trip long dreamed of, long planned for. At 2:17 a.m., July 21, astronaut Neil Armstrong plans to step out of his earth-made transportation and become the first human being to set foot on the moon.

The moon, "a ghostly galleon upon cloudy seas," wrote poet Alfred Noyes. "The cold, fruitless moon," it was called by Shakespeare. "The moon is made of a green cheese," thought John Heywood in the 16th century. But when Apollo 8 splashed down in the Pacific after a Christmas orbit of the moon, astronaut Frank Borman said: "It's not made of green cheese at all. It's made of American cheese."

It is neither, of course, but exactly what the moon is made of has been a puzzle for centuries, a puzzle which, if all goes well, will be solved with the return of the Apollo 11 astronauts to their earth home.

Photographs and human visual examination of the moon, from previous Apollo shots and unmanned trips by Surveyor and Lunar Orbiter spacecraft, have enabled space planners to map the moon and determine a secure landing site for the astronauts.

Armstrong and Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin are to transfer into a lunar landing ship on the historic Apollo 11 mission, leaving Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins alone in the command vehicle.

Armstrong and Aldrin will fly the lunar module — LEM — in a two-hour trip down to the moon. The landing site is the southwest corner of the Sea of Tranquility, near a crater named Molke. It is an imaginary oval about nine miles long and four miles wide. The largest crater in the oval is about 150 feet in diameter.

The Apollo 10 astronauts reported that 20 to 30 per cent of the area is semi-clear, though pocked with thousands of small craters ranging in size from a dime to several feet. The soil, they reported, resembled wet clay.

As the LEM makes its final, dizzying approach, Armstrong and Aldrin seek out the lunar landmarks that lead them to the site. Sweeping low over the Sea of Tranquility, they see a spectacular jagged gash jutting out from crater Maskelyne A.

Minutes later, they zip over two deep ridges which look like dry river beds and which the astronauts have named Diamondback and Sidewinder. On the left is Censorinus, and on the right Maskelyne and Sabine E.

Suddenly, there's Molke and the landing zone a few miles to the right.

The landing is timed for just after dawn when the sun's rays rake across the terrain, casting shadows that make it easier for the astronauts to see hazardous rocks and craters.

And, finally, after centuries of jokes and superstition, there will indeed be a man on the moon.

News Briefs

Oar Adventurer Faces Test

MIAMI (AP) — Sea-going adventurer John Fairfax faced the prospect of tangling with the swift currents of the Gulf Stream today as he neared the end of his transatlantic trip by rowboat.

Vigorous, smiling and trim, the 31-year-old oarsman dropped anchor Wednesday 140 miles east of Miami for a rest and a brief visit with photographers who landed in a seaplane near his 24-foot craft, the Britania.

But, he said, "I'd like to have a drink." He was given a soft drink.

His boat was a bright orange when Fairfax left the Canary Islands Jan. 20 on an attempt to become the first man to row across the Atlantic. Wednesday the craft's color was faded and bleached, but apparently remained seaworthy.

The 5-foot-6, 150-pound oarsman said he would attempt to ride the flow of the Gulf Stream northwesterly to Miami, possibly arriving late this weekend.

Apollo Countdown Set to Begin

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The lengthy countdown begins tonight for Apollo 11's journey to the moon.

At 8 p.m. EDT, the launch team will feed electrical power to the giant Saturn 5 rocket, starting the countdown clock ticking toward a liftoff at 9:32 a.m. next Wednesday.

As crews completed systems checks on the 36-story-tall rocket-spaceship combination today, astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins planned a day-long workout in the command ship simulator, practicing the engine maneuver that shoots them out of earth orbit and sets them on a quarter-million-mile course to the moon.

They are to orbit the moon July 19, and the next day Armstrong and Aldrin are to fly a fragile lunar module (LEM) to man's first landing on the lunar surface.

Early on July 21, first Armstrong, then Aldrin step outside for an exploration period scheduled to last about 2 1/2 hours.

The countdown is 93 hours, but it is spread over 5 1/2 days. This allows for several planned holds to give the crew rest and time to correct any problems that might arise.

Tractor Driver In Accident

A Farmall tractor and auto collision Wednesday at 9 p.m. on highway 72, two and one-half miles east of Patton in Bollinger county, accounted for two injuries, the only injuries reported by the highway patrol.

A 1969 Oldsmobile, driven by Orne Finley, 49, East Prairie, ran into the rear of a Farmall tractor, driven by Leslie Klein, 45, Sedgewickville.

The collision caused the tractor to turn over, throwing the driver off, resulting in head injuries.

Finley, driver of the Oldsmobile, received chest injuries.

Both of the injured were taken to Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

I.D. Program to Undergo Change

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — After this, a 21-year-old who wants a liquor identification card in order to buy drinks legally will have to get it at liquor control headquarters in Jefferson City.

Harry Wiggins, state liquor control supervisor, said Wednesday he regretted the action but had to curtail the program because of sharp budget cuts by the Senate.

He said three full time employees who handled the program will have to be eliminated.

The I.D. card was adopted four years ago as a way for liquor store and bar operators to determine whether a customer was 21. It was the only valid proof of age a retailer could accept. The cards bear the name, address, age and photograph of the holder.

Each card costs $1.50 but Wiggins said the actual cost is much more.

Storms Hike Flooding in Mid-Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thunderstorms that packed winds of up to 120 miles per hour, a few small tornadoes and torrential rains swept out of north central Kansas, across Missouri and into Illinois Wednesday evening, causing widespread property damage but no known injuries.

There was some flash flooding in a six-county area around metropolitan Kansas City and the downpours in the St. Louis area along the Missouri-Illinois border are sure to prolong already flooding tributaries of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

And early today another storm moved across Missouri. A tornado or high winds caused minor damage at Cement City near Independence as the storm moved eastward.

The Corps of Engineers at St. Louis said flood conditions exist in low-lying areas along the Mississippi from Louisiana, Mo., to Cape Girardeau, Mo., with several thousands acres of rich cropland inundated.

The greatest damage from the storms occurred in an industrial park area in the northeast section of Kansas City bordering the Missouri River.

Several warehouses and manufacturing plants lost roofs, doors and windows.

Jack Wilson, manager of the Masonite Center Distributing Co., said water poured through gaping holes in the firm's roof causing an estimated loss of $4-to-$5-million to contents.

The National Plastics Co. reported damages of around $200,000 as wind-whipped rain

Stokely Found Guilty of 11 Fraud Charges

Stokely was president of Investors Securities Associates, Inc., and Singleton vice president.

Man Dies Enroute To Hospital

PARMA, Mo. AP — A motorist stopped for careless driving in Parma was wounded fatally Wednesday night after attacking City Marshall Hollis Mendley, the State Highway Patrol said.

The dead man was identified as Robert Reed, 24, of rural Parma.

Medley said he stopped Reed about 9:30 p.m. and was discussing the matter in his patrol car when Reed grew angry and attacked him. The Marshall said he then shot Reed in self defense.

Reed died on the way to a Memphis, Tenn., hospital, the patrol said.

Astromonk Died Of Heart Attack

HONOLULU (AP) — Bonny, the astromonk, died of a heart attack probably brought on by his lowered body temperature, says a preliminary report issued following a six-hour autopsy by a dozen scientists.

A final autopsy report on the monkey which died 12 hours after returning to earth is not expected for months, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday.

Dr. W. Ross Adey, the space project's chief investigator said the fatal drop in Bonny's temperature may have been due to his immobilization in weightlessness and a too-cool capsule during the nearly nine-day flight.

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko condemned Red China today and made a bid for developing friendly relations with the United States.

Gromyko, in a major foreign policy speech before the Soviet parliament—said the Kremlin favors talks with Washington "to find positions of agreement both on questions of bilateral relations and on unresolved international problems."

He warned Peking that attempts to use armed force against the Soviet Union "will be met with the necessary rebuff."

Despite the belligerent tone, he expressed readiness to have talks with China "on a wide range of questions" but gave no indication that the Mao Tse-tung leadership had shown interest.

Gromyko's one-hour and 50-minute speech showed an increased Soviet willingness to deal with Washington and a hardening hostility toward China. It apparently reflected a pro-Western change in Kremlin foreign policy following a series of bloody incidents on the Soviet-Chinese border.

The Soviet foreign minister proposed talks on Berlin to prevent trouble from flaring up there again. The Kremlin attitude toward the divided city has been considered a barometer of its interest in getting along with the West.

His bitter criticism of Peking contrasted with marked mildness toward the United States. He passed lightly over Vietnam, which used to rate long diatribes here, and used a conciliatory tone in other references to Washington, stressing the desirability of talks.

Gromyko noted that the Kremlin already has expressed willingness to discuss missile limitations with the United States. He did not mention a date or place for the talks, which Washington says are due to start in August in Vienna or Geneva.

"I would like to express the hope that the two sides will approach this question bearing in mind its paramount importance," Gromyko commented.

"We are for developing good relations with the United States and want these relations to be friendly because we believe that this would meet the interests of both the Soviet and American peoples."

"We took note of President Nixon's statement that in his opinion a period of confrontation is followed by an era of talks. The Soviet Union stands for talks."

"If the U.S. government continues to follow in practice this line, we are willing, as we were before, to find concerted positions both on questions of bilateral relations with the United States and on outstanding international problems."

The 60-year-old foreign minister touched upon a possible summit meeting of American and Soviet leaders. But his remark apparently indicated only that such a meeting is under consideration but no final decision has been taken.

Gromyko made no effort to disguise the importance the Kremlin attaches to China, whose 700 million people and turbulent society are removed from this country only by a disputed border more than 4,000 miles long.

"The situation in Asia and elsewhere in the world depends to a considerable extent on what aims China will serve and the way its foreign policy will be oriented," the foreign minister told parliament.

Gromyko charged the Mao Tse-tung leadership with heaping "an avalanche of abuse and insults" on the Soviet Union which, he said, "testify to their hostile intentions toward our country." He derided what he called "false territorial claims of the Chinese leaders" to parts of the Soviet Union.

Proposing Soviet-Chinese talks, Gromyko asserted: "We would like to believe that the Chinese leaders will arrive at the only correct conclusion—that incidents must be excluded, that in the relations between our countries the language of hostility and strength is inadmissible."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS! LET'S KEEP OUT OF THIS ONE

Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy is making no effort to hide his ambition of winning the Democratic nomination in 1972. Name an issue; he's ready to comment on it. This is as it should be. But we hope the senator is more consistent in the future than he appears to be at this point in time.

We refer to the hornet's nest he recently stirred up by injecting himself into the internal affairs of Northern Ireland. This seems out of character for the senator in light of his constant harangue against US policy in South Vietnam, a policy that escalated during his late brother's term of office.

Northern Ireland has been the scene of some bloody clashes between religious groups. There has been much bloodshed and tempers are at fever pitch. We don't take a foreign criticism of our internal strife. We are tired of foreign government officials who enjoy examining our imperfections. There are more than enough critics of our frailties right here at home.

By the same token, we sympathize with our friends in other nations who are having internal difficulties and appreciate their right to find their own solutions. The telegram sent by Kennedy to the Ulster (Ireland) Civil Rights Association supporting their cause was not in the best interests of international friendship and showed a curious lack of discretion. We wonder how any US senator can be such an expert on the internal affairs of another nation as to get into the fight in the first place. Surely the job of senator calls for full time study of our own national affairs, with little time for interference in foreign squabbles. We hope that, in the future, Senator Kennedy will use more mature judgment.

TREATIES AND CRIME

During the 88th anniversary convention of the Tennessee Bar Association, the guest speaker, U. S. Attorney General John Mitchell, mentioned that an eminent criminologist had "suggested that society should arrange a formal truce with the organized syndicate because all efforts, so far, to weaken organized crime have failed."

On first consideration this would appear to be ridiculous suggestion for anyone to make, especially an eminent criminologist. It can't happen here? Consider these recent developments:

A black supremacy group receives anti-poverty money from the Office of Economic Opportunity. Could this be considered an economic alliance of sorts? A payoff for being good little militants?

Self-avowed communist Herbert Aptheker is hired to teach at Byrn Mawr College. Perhaps this is a way of insuring against campus disorders.

A definite minority of grape pickers, not even enough to slow down the harvest after several years, carries on a boycott in supermarkets and gains support from mayors in Detroit, New York and other cities. What about the vast majority of grape workers and their employers who will be injured financially by this unfair action?

A handful of radicals takes over church office property and church leaders take no action on behalf of the parishioners who paid for the offices with their donations.

A professional football player is strongly suspected of consorting with underworld figures. The commissioner, whose duty it is to maintain the image of the sport, takes action to eliminate the implications of impropriety, but public sympathy is all with the player. Shouldn't all the facts be clear before either is condemned? Was the commissioner wrong to eliminate the appearance of a link between the sports world and the underworld?

It's time the public ceased looking the other way. Or the possibility of a treaty with crime may be closer than we think.

NADER AND THE REDSKINS

Editor's note: Columnist Ralph De Toledano in his Washington column has taken after Ralph Nader who has been much publicized as the consumers' defender, so we reprint with permission for the other side of the controversy.

From an office on the eighth floor of the National Press Building -- no name on the door, no indication of what goes on behind the frosted glass -- Ralph Nader has run his Operation Drop Dead, grabbing every headline in sight and telling the Executive, Judicial, and Legislative branches of the government just what they should do. Mr. Nader's is an every-hour - on-the-hour proposition. Having run out of charges to make against American industry, he has most recently made himself the champion of the American Indian, offering free advice and freer criticism of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

In a free country, this is Mr. Nader's right. But it can also be asked by those who watch his free wheeling activities just who is behind them and who is putting up the cash. Running an office and a mimeograph machine in Washington costs money, but Mr. Nader seems to float through the air with very little thought of the wherewithal that keeps most of us in shoes and drinks.

How Ralph Nader became an expert on the problems

of America's red-skinned brothers is a puzzler. But it is easy to determine where he got the ammunition (so-called) to use against one of his other current targets, the Federal Trade Commission and its chairman, Paul Rand Dixon. Respected by the right, left, and center for his fairness and the excellent work he has done as head of the FTC, Mr. Dixon finds himself at the receiving end of an attack which, even in this city's political jungles, can only be described as hysterical - a smear of the type we had thought was gone from the Washington scene.

FTC Chairman Dixon needs no defense from me. In this job, he has put aside the punitive practices of his predecessors and sought to protect the consumer by means which did not require expensive and dragged-out litigation. Rather, he used logic, persuasion, and fair-minded discussion to bring American business into line where it had deviated from the straight and narrow. He proved that businessmen, who properly approached, were willing to follow fairly established guidelines without the threat of legal bludgeons.

In June of 1968, Mr. Nader approached Chairman Dixon with the suggestion that a group of students and recent law graduates wished to study the FTC. Mr. Dixon readily offered full cooperation and opened his records to them. Early in January of this year, Mr. Dixon learned from the press that a "Nader report" had been issued. It was in the hands of reporters, of Congressmen, and of almost everyone with the exception of the FTC and its chairman. (To date, Mr. Nader has never had the courtesy of sending a copy to Mr. Dixon.)

The report contended that American businessmen were basically dishonest and that they were engaged in unethical activities. These businessmen, according to Mr. Nader and his buddies, were far more hurtful to America "than all the depredations of street crime" -- the murder, violence, rape, and other offenses against the citizen that have made our cities what they are today.

The Nader report also criticized Mr. Dixon and his commission because it hired lawyers and personnel from universities other than Harvard, Yale, and Princeton. This, in the eyes of the "study group," was tantamount to treason. What's more, the general makeup of the FTC staff represented the general composition of the United States, rather than that of New York, Chicago, and the other great urban centers. To Mr. Nader, this implied some kind of plot against the American consumer. Nader's Raiders also accused the FTC of incompetence, indolence and alcoholism -- nasty letter follows -- with no chapter and verse and only the high dudgeon of the "investigators" to back up the charges. Oh yes, the report also said that only 40 of the commission's 500 lawyers were Republicans -- a figure drawn out of the Washington air and based on no survey, no questionnaire, no tally.

Mr. Dixon's detailed answer to the "Nader Report" lays on the line the excellent record of the FTC since he took it over. And it may explain why Ralph Nader, described by the public prints as a "free lance lobbyist," has shifted from consumer problems to the American Indian. Mr. Nader's desperate clutch at each day's headlines has made him something of a laughing stock in Washington. His smear of a respected public official has begun to bother even the most vitriolic antibusiness groups here. Better, then, the wide open spaces. How many Indians, after all, read the Congressional Record?

NEW YORK (AP) — She is still tiny, still vibrant, still beautiful.

But at 22, celebrating her 15th anniversary in show business, child star Patty Duke is definitely no longer a child star. She is now a mature mite 5 feet tall.

—Weight 85 pounds—and anxious to tackle mature roles.

"When I was younger it used to bother me that I was so small," she said. "It doesn't anymore, although I suppose it wouldn't hurt if I were a couple of inches taller."

In her latest film "Me Natalie," she plays a love-worshipped 18-year-old girl moving about in the world of the wounded young.

Patty is planning soon to move from the West Coast back to Manhattan, where she was born in Bellevue Hospital on Dec. 14, 1946. Her father was a cab driver, her mother a restaurant cashier.

At 7 Patty started her phenomenal acting career. In the busy years that followed she appeared in several plays, more than 50 television shows, and a number of movies. A landmark of her life, of course, was the winning of an Oscar in 1963 as "best supporting actress" for her part in "The Miracle Worker."

Then only 16, she was the youngest person ever to receive the award.

Inevitably, Patty's childhood wasn't a normal one, but she 30 doesn't feel her early stardom left any permanent emotional scars.

"I have some regrets, but the good outweighs the bad," she said. "I'd like to have spent more time in school, but I've given greater opportunities."

"When I have children, I wouldn't want them to take up a theatrical career unless they really had the urge to. I think children have enough responsibilities while growing up without having to compete with adults in an adult world."

An instinctive performer and a conscientious one, Patty spends most of her spare time reading scripts, searching for roles that she feels will expand her acting horizon.

"Its part of the homework," she said. "But acting to me is secondary now. My goals are personal. I want to be happily married and have children."

At the moment, however, Miss Duke is unhappily married. She is separated from her husband, Harry G. Falk Jr., a television director who is double her age.

To Patty life is summed up in the word "adjustment."

"You have to learn to adjust to the things you have but strive to change what you don't like about your life—and avoid becoming cynical."

Here are things Patty likes: "Friendly, open people—dogs—the innocence of children—daisies—folk songs—the sound of rain—lobster, and almost every kind of food—white wine—anything colored blue—collecting antiques—simple gold jewelry—sensitive men with a good sense of humor."

And here are her dislikes: "Injustice and untruth—being alone—anything colored orange—the sound of fingernails on a blackboard—long winters—child—the smell of the sea at low tide—the taste of liquor—and insincere people."

***
The Infosites are large buildings adjacent to rest areas, well-lighted heated and air conditioned with numerous panels for commercials. It was expected that advertisers would welcome the opportunity to display their messages at the Infosites and that travelers would flock to them for information.

***
What happened was quite different, reports Highway User Magazine. The advertisers simply moved their signs back of the legal limit and made them that much bigger. Only 20 per cent of the advertising space in the Infosites was sold, and of 4,000 travelers interviewed in a survey, 80 to 90 per cent said they got all the information they needed from the billboards.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: U.S. faces critical drought for lack of planning; Washington voted billions for moon shot while Potomac dried up; did Nixon's doctor get permission to report on Presidential stability?

WASHINGTON—Along the Atlantic seaboard right now are two illustrations of man's efficiency in achieving the thrills of life and man's inefficiency in not achieving the necessities of life.

At Cape Kennedy, the United States is about to launch the most carefully rehearsed, most expensive, most unnecessary project of this century by which man will reach a piece of drab, radioactive, lava-like real estate hitherto romantic because of distance—the moon.

The launching will succeed because a vast amount of money and the best scientific brains in America over a period of seven years have been lavished on the moon shot. Meanwhile, up the Atlantic coast, the capital which voted the twenty billion dollars to reach the moon is desperately short of the second essential to man's life-water—all because of lack of planning, lack of foresight, and lack of money—the same ingredients which have put the moon shot on the verge of success.

The Potomac river from which the capital of the United States draws its water is gradually drying up. Its upper reaches are so shallow that rocks stick out of the stream bed like the bones of starving old woman. Drained by communities and real estate development along its banks, he upper potomac is starving.

Below, as it flows through Washington, the once majestic river has become an open sewer. Two hundred and forty million gallons of human excrement, detergents, wash water and industrial waste are poured daily into the river. The sewage is only partially treated.

Not even fish can live long in this poisonous water. The days when small boys splashed and cavorted off the piers of the moon would solve our water problems.

There is an illustration. Russia has reversed the direction of some of its great rivers which flow into the Barren Arctic where they freeze and are wasted. What a communistic nation can do, presumably a capitalistic nation can do—if it eschews politics.

For less money than it takes to reach the moon, the Missouri River could be diverted westward at around Omaha and made to flow through the parched plains of Nebraska, Kansas and Texas instead of adding its vast volume to the already brimful Mississippi.

What the nation needs, however, is a water pollution czar who can look ahead, make plans, spend money, as the moon-shooters have done. Until that time, the city of Washington will be periodically starved for water, as will other cities of this short-sighted nation.

—Nixon's Doctor Reports—
Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker, the New York psychiatrist, takes the occasion of an article in Look Magazine to discuss President Nixon's mental stability and tke a sideswipe at me regarding the inquiry I made of Hutschnecker during last fall's election campaign.

The results of my inquiry of Dr. Hutschnecker were not published during the campaign but came out later during a question-and-answer period at the national press club.

Dr. Hutschnecker makes himself out to be a very tight-lipped psychiatrist. But since he has raised the issue, he did not give me that impression when I talked to him last fall. I see no reason to raise the question of the President's mental stability at this point, though I am glad Dr. Hutschnecker reports it is sound.

It might be interesting to know whether Dr. Hutschnecker complied with ethics of the medical profession by getting permission to report on the President's health before writing his article for Look.

Gradually at first, but now accelerating rapidly as the population grows, water is becoming a proram. Yet the same ingenuity used in reaching

Team to elect a chairman who pledges members to deliver 20 minutes weekly to make freedom workable. One may spend 20 minutes on Monday, another Tuesday and other select one of the four succeeding weekdays. Each names an alternate, who may be a spouse. Members, on their chosen weekdays, phone six acquaintances, suggesting they use the goods and services which advertisers offer on patriotic media. Each team should decide for itself the most worthy causes. The goals of different teams may differ. Each should promote freedom and capitalize on the turn to the Right.

A "spirit of crusade" develops and each team is organized in promoting patriotism. Each Team of 6 is a crusade of two hours weekly; a thousand Teams, 2,000 hours per week, may decide an issue in a sizable city. Ten thousand Teams, 20,000 hours, could sway a metropolis to the Truth-side.

Many things remain to be done if the turn to the Right is to bear fruit and save Republic USA. Our Founding Fathers built this land from a wilderness which barely supported a few hundred thousand poor souls. The Founders built the foundations enabling us to escape from periodic famine which plagued the rest of the world and still destroys the lives of millions each year.

We built our land on principles of individuals initiative and the profit-motive system. Disrupters like SDS, Maoists and other communist and communist-leaning groups would return Republic USA to tyranny and famine such as the communists "enjoy."

Constructive citizens who would resist can joyfully turn to Teams of 2 to 6 and overcome those who would destroy freedom and our Republic USA. HILL COURT IS NOT SUPREME persons, homes, workplaces, schools and property. The appointment of a Chief Justice strong on law and order is a step in the right direction but is not a cure for the accumulated excesses.

The U.S. Constitution empowers Congress to preclude the Supreme Court from accepting appeals from lower courts of those convicted of certain crimes. The Founding Fathers, who handed down to us this greatest nation yet created, did not visualize court decisions of 4-to-3 or 5-to-4 being allowed to override the plain words of the Constitution and laws passed pursuant thereto.

The people elect 100 Senators, one-third every two years, and 435 Congressmen, each of whom must face his electorate every November. The 50 states likewise elect 1,964 State Senators and 5,594 Legislators to write their laws at state and local level. The U.S. Supreme Court has given much lip-service in recent years to a "pure democracy" theory of "one-man one-vote" yet arrogates to four or five of its nine appointed judges the right to override these thousands of elected delegates chosen by the people to write their laws.

Republic USA continues to be in danger as long as four or five men, appointed for life, are allowed to rewrite law, loose confessed murderers and rapists upon helpless citizens, and free subversives to disrupt and destroy our colleges, industrial plants and defense.

Congress should face up to the challenges thrown down by these four of five judges and reassert its abdicated constitutional authority. Each voter is represented in Congress by two Senators and one Congressman. Concerned voters, who do not wish to see their Republic destroyed and their Congress become as powerless as Russia's "legislative" body, can send letters to the editor and encourage their three men in Congress to take a stand before it is too late.

overtime at double time. Who can control the rank and file. Not the national leaders. They don't have their old clout. They can't.

"In the old days," said one of their own set recently, "we had power. Now we just don't have the intangible force, or the old rough and ready dictate to bring the younger men into line. And if we did have the power, the old authority, we would get hit by the courts under Title I, Landrum - Griffin with its built-in Bill of Rights giving the rank and file the right to tell us to go to hell after we've made a pact. They don't want advice. They want their money and they want it now."

So, a lot of other men are becoming furious. If the building craftsman wants tough action, he'll get it. If he won't listen to his national union leaders, there are other national leaders who will make him listen.

And one of those national fellows is Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney. He's tough -- and not only because he rises at 4:30 a.m., trots two miles and has his staff in at seven for a breakfast discussion on the day's plans.

Secretary Romney wants housing built on an assembly line basis. There's been a breakthrough with the carpenters who've agreed to work with the new Stirling Home - Ex instant housing company anywhere in the nation -- to build and erect prefabricated homes.

Mr. Romney says candidly he is sick of practices such as those of some seven and eight dollar an hour crafts which insist that men stand idly alongside automated machinery, watch it work and then take home almost $300 a week for doing virtually nothing.

Mr. Romney is sick of getting pledges of cooperation from national building and construction labor leaders only to receive reports from the field that the local business agent could not care less and won't sign a contract for less than a 40 to 50 per cent increase -- or they won't man a job without a guarantee of globs of heavily paid overtime.

So Mr. Romney has drawn up a tough set of recommendations for handling local unions, and strikes and jurisdictional conflicts. And the HUD Secretary has outlined some tough legislation which could show the rank and file that the government can be as tough as they are -- implausible as that may sound to some business men in the big cities or Black Fork Mesa someplace.

This report was sent along to the White House on July 3 -- in a black workmen -- not the trigger-happy Panthers, but the men of the ghettos who want to get a piece of the well-paying push any unions around. But action (as they call it) but find they can't get into closed unions. No one could get into heavy tanks. The membership books are closed so the rank and file can control the labor market and force the contractor to find that Mr. Romney has some pledge specific amounts of unity behind him too.

Now, to give yourself a full-scale pedicure follow these rules:

Work a little tropical moist oil of Olay into and around the nails so that cuticle skin is softened and you can gently ease it back.

Trim or file your toe nails straight across to discourage in-growing corners. Before applying polish cleanse the nails with cotton soaked in a little lemon freshener.

Separate the toes by weaving a tissue between them so that they are spread apart to prevent smudging. Apply two coats of varnish from cuticle to tip and finally brush a coat of colorless sealer to protect the finish. Toe-nails look loveliest when a pale pink frosted polish is used.

THE HAPPINESS of many years, relived with family and friends, brought laughter and tears to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Harris at the surprise celebration in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary, July 3. ## Golden Anniversary Celebrated By Carl C. and 'Dot' Harris

A Golden Anniversary of treasured thoughts and memories that a life together for 50 years brings was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Harris, 407 Virginia, at a surprise party held in their honor at Holiday Inn, July 3, 1969.

It was Ralph Waldo Emerson who said that "We did not find our friends; the good God gave them to us" and it certainly expressed the feelings of Carl and Dot Harris from the looks on their faces when they unawares entered a room full of only family and very close friends. Amidst the glow of candle-light and an orchestra softly playing the Anniversary Waltz, the celebration started with the regal couple escorted to Missouri. Also, regrets sent by a beautifully decorated, Golden friends and relatives who could not be present and seated in golden chairs by their son, Hugh acknowledged. The traditional V. Harris of Houston, Texas, and cutting of the anniversary cake their daughter, Lila Jeanne and the opening of gifts Bussey of Sikeston; and two followed and to complete the grand-children, Carl and Carla evening, dancing to the music of Jeanne Harris, Henry S. Carl C. Harris is a World War 1 veteran. He was a commissioned officer in the U.S. Army Infantry and stationed in France. At the end of the war, and almost immediately upon his return from overseas duty and still in uniform, he married Dona Belle Quinn in Louisville, Ky., July 3, 1919. Carl always refers to his wife as his Kentucky "Belle," which she truly is. Dona or "Dot" as she is known to many friends is loved by all who know her. She has a remarkable sense of humor and her laughter so warm and real that it is contagious to anyone around her.

When Carl was asked if he held any one particular thought for the future, he very quickly gave this statement: "I wish, hope and desire that this country can return to a little ordinary sanity." Mr. Harris has been engaged in commercial sales work different types during past 50 years. ## Ann Landers Convinced There's a Curse

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old son turned up at the breakfast table with his hair tinted red. My husband almost hit him. I am in a state of shock. It seems Larry let his girl friend "experiment" on him. When we told Larry we were horrified he said the color of a person's hair shouldn't make THAT much difference.

Larry's hair used to be a golden blond and now he looks as if he is wearing a wig. The girl also tried to dye his eyebrows and one eyebrow is redder than the other. He looks like a freak. We didn't say much when he let his hair grow longer on the sides (it's really shorter than most of his friends) but this latest move is too much. What shall we do? -- Buffalo Parents

Dear Buff: It's his hair and his problem. Larry will get plenty of needing from his friends. You won't have to do anything. Time and patience are your best allies.

Dear Ann Landers: Four months ago my wife's parents moved to this city - five blocks from us and across the street from another daughter. They are not old people, Ann. They are in their early 50's, yet they have developed no interests and no friends, only us. My wife's sister got smart after the folks had been in town only six weeks. She insisted that her husband request a transfer. They moved out of the state and now we have them all the time. By "all the time" I mean five nights a week - and it's murder.

My wife is as fed up as I am. I am writing at her request. Can you help us? -- Over-Visited

Dear Over: Sorry, I can't help you. I'm here. But your wife is there. She can help herself - and I hope she will. Here's how. She should introduce her parents to people their own age. For openers, I suggest a small party to which she can invite the parents of your friends. If this doesn't work, you and your wife should make plans and announce in advance that you are busy with previous commitments.

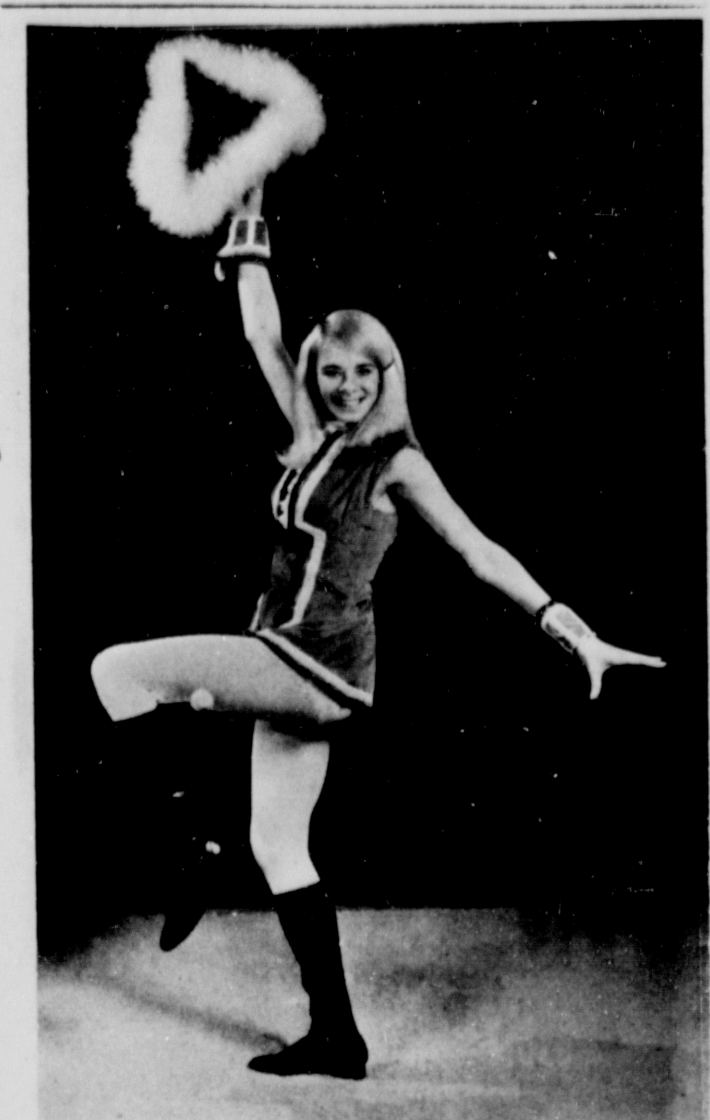

Dear Ann Landers: Can getting mooched on run in the family? My Dad is the Number One target for relatives who want to borrow luggage, golf clubs, garden tools, etc. My mother has been driving "the girls" to their weekly club meeting for so long they don't even say "thank you."

I inherited the family curse when I bought a new car seven months ago. A certain guy who works for the same company has figured out the exact minute I will pass his house. Every work day for the last five months Miltie the Moocher has been out in front just in time to hook a ride. When I get in my car to go home at night Miltie is already sitting in it, waiting for me.

Wouldn't you think he'd slip me a couple of bucks for gas once in a while or maybe offer to fill the tank? Would I be in line if I suggested it? -- El Jerque

Dear El: Of course, Miltie should offer something in the way of compensation, but since he hasn't, don't suggest it. If his cheapness bothers you, change your travel route. In the meantime, how many of you readers who ride free to work are demonstrating your appreciation by crashing through with an occasional token of gratitude?

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell

Miss Connie Ann Campagna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Campagna, is attending a ten day twirling clinic at Arkansas State University, Jonesboro. Miss Campagna, a junior at Sikeston High School, began twirling last year and was omitted from the group pictured printed in Tuesday's Standard

D&D, Bells, Reiss Stovalls Win At Dexter

DEXTER — Mike Ward pitched a two-hitter as Dale and Dowdy trimmed the Astros 4-1 in Babe Ruth league play at the East Park here last night. Ward struck out 11 while Wayne Williams picked up the defeat, allowing three hits and fanning nine.

Cindy Coffey homered for

At the West Park, Reiss Dairy took 12-11 Civic League win over Hamras with Mike Yates collecting the win and Alan Foushee the loss, while Stovalls posted a 15-5 victory over International Hat in Little League action. Robbey Davis was the winning hurler. Randy Porter was delt the defeat.

Two games are slated for the East Park tonight with Babe Ruth action between Western Auto and the Giants slated for 6:30 p.m. The Top Hats battle the Candy Canes in softball play at 8 p.m. At the West Park, Citizens Bank and Vowels Tire battle in Civic League play.

AL Stars Named

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League hopes to roll out the old home run cannon to try to snap the National League's six-game win streak in the July 22 All-Star game at Washington with sluggers like Reggie Jackson and Frank Howard in the starting line-up.

The big surprise in the lineup, announced Wednesday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was the absence of Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, the third base starter five years in a row. Brooks gave way to Sa Bando of the Oakland A's.

Baltimore, breezing along in the Eastern Division, wound up with outfielder Frank Robinson and first baseman John "Boog" Powell in the starting eight (pitchers are picked later). Oakland, running second to Minnesota in the Western Division, also had a pair—Bando at third and Jackson in the outfield.

Rico Petrolcelli, Boston's shortstop who has developed into a long ball threat, topped the balloting of players, managers and coaches with 286 votes. The next best was Jackson's 260. Players were not permitted to vote for their own teammates.

Howard, the giant-sized Washington slugger who is fighting with Jackson for the home run title, was one of three repeaters from the 1968 starting line-up. The others were catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, the current batting leader.

Baltimore and Oakland each had two starters and Minnesota, Boston, Washington and Detroit one each. By divisions the East had five, the West three.

Members of the National League's starting line-up will be announced Friday afternoon. The remainder of the 28-man squads, including pitchers, will be selected by the managers and announced over a 10-day period.

Mayo Smith, who led Detroit to the pennant last year, will manage the Americans against Red Schoendienst, his World Series rival as skipper of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The vote for third base was close with Bando beating Brooks Robinson 163-126. At first it was Powell over Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota 210-96. Killebrew also got 33 votes for third base although the players were told to vote for a man at only one position. Arew won over Tommy Harper of Seattle, 256-32 in the second base competition involving nine players. Petrolcelli had a 26-18 edge over Mark Belanger of Baltimore at short and Freehan beat out John Roseboro of Minnesota 155-74 for the catching job.

Outfielders were not named by position. The top men were Jackson, 260, Frank Robinson, 250, and Howard, 169. Next best was Paul Blair of Baltimore, 88.

The 1968 starters who did not make it were Killebrew at first, Brooks Robinson at third, Jim Fregosi of California at short and Willie Horton of Detroit and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, winner of two straight league batting titles, in the outfield. Any or all may be picked later by Manager Smith.

CRICKETS were used as bait by Mr. and Mrs. Carol Gaines, 104 Jackson St., at Duck Creek Tuesday where they caught 104 Brim and Bluegill.

Mets Trim Lead; Cards Split

By HAL BÖCK Associated Press Sports Writer

Their dizzying dash towards the more respectable neighborhood in the National in the doubleheader, opened the League standings has turned seventh inning of the nightcap with a single and came around to score Pittsburgh's tying run on a sacrifice, a wild pitch and an error. Then Fred Patek beat out for the Mets' seventh straight in the eighth and Stargell doubled trimmed the Cubs' lead over him home.

New York to three games in the East Division race. It should have been a source of great joy. It was, believe it or not, a source of great disappointment.

That's because Seaver flirled with immortality by retiring 25 consecutive Cubs before rookie Jimmy Qualls ended his perfect game bid with a one-out single in the ninth inning.

That single by the No. 8 Phillie lead. The Giants, held to one hit deprived Seaver of his line in the for seven innings by Denny record book but it couldn't keep Lemaster, exploded for four New York from continuing its runs in the seventh and then got tear towards the top. Yet, it added the touch of aggravation Burda and a solo shot by Dick Dietz in the eighth to whack Mets.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh nipped Montreal twice 4-3 in 10 innings and 3-2, Philadelphia split with St. Louis, winning 7-1 before losing 5-3. San Francisco bombed Houston 10-3, Cincinnati edged San Diego 4-3 and Los Angeles dropped Atlanta 3-1.

In the American League, Baltimore edged New York 6-5 in 10 innings. Detroit nipped Boston 6-5, Washington shut out Cleveland 3-0, Chicago tripped Oakland 5-3, Kansas City defeated Minnesota 4-3 and Seattle split a doubleheader with California, winning the opener 8-0 and dropping the night cap 5-0.

Seaver drove in a run with a second inning single as the Mets jumped on Ken Holtzman, knocking out the Cub left-hander and taking a 3-0 lead in the first two innings.

Then Seaver became a oneman show, retiring the Cubs 12-3 in every inning. He struck out five of the first six batters he faced and fanned 11 for the game.

Randy Hundley bunted Seaver's first pitch in the ninth inning and the pitcher threw him out for the 25th Cub to go down in order. Then Qualls rapped the next pitch for the hit. Seaver then retired the next two hitters easily to end the game.

He termed the one-hitter "a disappointment" but around the Mets, that word is commonplace. If every disappointment was a one-hitter, they'd never complain.

Pittsburgh swept the Expos, winning the first game on Richie Hebner's leadoff triple in the 10th inning and a one-out single by Jose Martinez and then Woody Fryman pitched a four-hitter and Los Angeles tightened its grip on first place in the West Division by knocking off Atlanta Manny Mota, who went 3-for-10 in Tuesday's doubleheader sweep against the Braves, added three more hits Wednesday.

Tommy Helms cracked a single, two doubles and a triple, BATTING — Tommy Helms, Reds, collected a single, two doubles and a triple, driving in one run and scoring two as Cincinnati edged San Diego 4-3.

PITCHING — Tom Seaver, Mets, retired the first 25 Chicago batters but settled for a one-hitter — Jim Qualls' clean single — and a 4-0 victory over the Cubs.

Congressmen Find War, Taxes Uppermost on Voters' Minds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two members of Congress, home to test the flow of voter opinion, found an electorate preoccupied with two hopes—a fast end to the Vietnam war and a quick reduction in taxes.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., found no similar voter concentration on the debate over the advisability of deploying President Nixon's proposed antiballistic missile system.

The message they did hear can be summed up by two questions both men were most often asked:

"What are you going to do about taxes and spending?" and "When are we going to settle the war?"

Myers, 42, elected last November to his second House term, and Proxmire, 53, who is increasingly laying claim to the title of prime Senate advocate of a tight rein on defense spending, heard the questions at Independence Day parades, fish fries, horse shows, fireworks displays, and at fair grounds and shopping centers.

"It takes some time to really know how people are responding to a specific issue like the antiballistic missile," said Proxmire, an ABM opponent.

"That's because a lot of the things you get asked about are topical—the thing that was in the evening papers yesterday." But, he went on to say, "This Vietnam thing is deeper and stronger. And people, I think, are very sensitive to what's happening to their taxes. All of these older and retired people we met today—they're paying property tax and personal tax and school taxes, state tax, federal tax, sales tax, excise tax and surtax."

"It adds up to a whole lot. And of course they don't like it."

Dismissing from a horse named Rudy after a Friday morning parade through Terre Haute, his district's largest city, Myers was given a theme he heard over and over again throughout his long day of event hopping.

"Most people feel the war has gone on too long, but we do not feel it is in the American tradition to agree to dishonorable peace," he was told.

The next morning, Saturday, in West Allis, an industrial suburb of Milwaukee, Proxmire also heard a lot about Vietnam.

Many of those who spoke up urged speedy withdrawal.

"I fought in World War II," a 65-year-old Hales Corners, Wis. engineer told Proxmire. "I had no question but what that was the thing to do."

"But I wouldn't serve in Vietnam and, if it comes to that, I don't think my 20-year old son will either. If he made his own decision to resist the draft I'd support him in any way I could."

Clashing Sex Priorities Rated Divorce Factor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sex is No. 2 in a man's priorities for selecting a mate but No. 6 on the woman's list and that's the reason 75 per cent of American marriages are a bust, according to an eminent psychologist.

"When a man gazes into a woman's eyes with what they think is love and devotion they are not seeing the same thing," Dr. Clifford Rose Adams, professor emeritus of Penn State University, added in a report based on 30 years of research.

"Odds on any marriage being a success are shorter than those of hitting the jackpot on a pinball machine in Las Vegas."

Adams, 66, a consultant for Encyclopaedia Britannica and numerous scientific publications, presented his latest findings to the Identity Research Institute here after studying 6,000 couples.

"Since the sex revolution following World War II sexual satisfaction has been much more important to the male than to the female," the professor said.

"Companionship is the first subconscious factor influencing the male in mate selection. The, in order, come sex, love-affection-attachment in a single category, home and family, a helpmate (one giving encouragement) and, lastly, security."

"For the woman the first things he seeks are love, affection and sentiment. She has to feel loved and wanted. The second is security, then companionship, home and family, community acceptance and, sixth, sex."

"So you see man and woman do not see eye-to-eye. How can

Med Insurance Pays For Some Home Equipment

Many people under Medicare are asking if medical insurance helps pay for medical equipment for home use. According to Clifford Forsee, social security district manager at Cape Girardeau, medical insurance helps pay for renting or buying durable medical equipment for use in the home when it is prescribed by a doctor. This includes such items as hospital beds, oxygen tents, wheelchairs and other equipment primarily used for medical care and which can be used repeatedly. Medicare cannot pay for extra or deluxe features that are not medically necessary.

Whether a person buys or rents the equipment, Medicare will ordinarily make payments monthly. The payments are 80 percent of the reasonable rental charges after the $50 annual deductible has been met. If a person rents the equipment, payments will be made for as long as the equipment is medically needed. If the equipment is purchased payments will be made until (1) the amount Medicare pays has equaled 80 percent of the reasonable purchase price or (2) the medical need ends, whichever occurs first.

Forsee pointed out that the patient decides whether to buy or rent durable medical equipment. He should first discuss the matter with his doctor to find out about how long the equipment will be needed. It's important to remember that the Medicare payments will stop when the medical need for the equipment ends. If the patient decides to buy equipment and agrees to pay for it over a period of time, he or the family may still be paying for it after the Medicare payments stop.

Caldwell Pleads Guilty In Bluff Counterfeit Case

POPLAR BLUFF — Nelson Eddy Caldwell, operator of the defunct Allied Printers Associates in Poplar Bluff, has pleaded guilty to two of four counts of a federal counterfeiting indictment. Sentencing has been set for July 25 in St. Louis before U.S. District Court Judge Roy Harper.

Caldwell pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of counterfeit federal reserve notes, which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in federal prison and a fine of $5,000, or both; and to a second charge of transferring and delivering the same notes, which carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in federal prison and a fine of $5,000, or both.

Assistant U.S. Atty. William F. Murrell told the Daily American Republic today that Caldwell could face a total maximum punishment of 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Caldwell, age 28, was arrested March 4 by local officers and an agent of the U.S.

The World Almanac notes that the amount (principal and interest) still owed to the United States from loans made to 17 friendly nations during World War I was over $21 billion as of June, 1967. The amount of the original debt was $12 billion. In 1953, the United States agreed that no further payments need be made until final settlement of German World War I reparations, a settlement precluded as long as Germany is divided.

relatively mild, community tensions have been created.

At the end of an American Legion parade in Bloomington, a legionaire driving a car filled with dignitaries overheard someone remark that there had been no protests at all along the flag-filled route.

"They better not protest, by God," he said. "We'd shoot 'em."

Later a man who says he sells rubbish disposal equipment approached Proxmire and told him: "Let's get the Sam Hell out of Vietnam and call it a moral victory," that's what I say.

"We've been there for at least eight years now," another man told the senator. "We can train an American combat soldier in six months or less. If we can't train an effective Vietnamese fighting force in eight years we should get out."

Hires First City Manager

POPLAR BLUFF — David Pence, city manager of Flat River for the past 7½ years, has been named Poplar Bluff's first city manager.

Mr. Pence, 44, will begin his new duties Aug. 15 at a salary of $16,500.

The Poplar Bluff City Council, newly elected after this city voted to change to the Council-Manager form, voted Monday night to hire Mr. Pence.

Mr. Pence before taking the Flat River job had been city manager at Excelsior Springs for 6½ years.

In commenting on the Poplar Bluff position, Mr. Pence said he was impressed with both the people of the city and the new city council.

He said another factor in the acceptance of the job is the challenge represented in working with a new Council-Manager city.

Defense Rests Case

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The jury was expected to go out this afternoon to deliberate a verdict in the criminal suit the government has brought against Judson L. Stokely of Poplar Bluff in Federal District Court here.

Stokely, 44, is charged with obtaining funds through the fraudulent sale of securities and of using the U.S. mails in conjunction with the transactions.

At the noon hour today, the defense rests its case after calling five witnesses to the stand.

Attorney for the government, Jim Shoemaker, St. Louis, had called upon 21 witnesses in the first two days of testimony. He also produced a number of documents and checks identified as those of purchasers of stock in question. The documents and checks were admitted into evidence.

Fred. E. Steck, Sikeston, and Ted M. Henson, Poplar Bluff, are defense attorneys.

Judge Roy W. Harper is on the bench.

Stokely testified in his own behalf to open today's proceedings. He told of being president of a firm incorporated in March, 1964, as Investors Securities Associates, Inc., of Poplar Bluff.

But as its president, he stated he was only in charge of sales and had no knowledge of records of the company. He said he hired a man named Robert E. Singleton, Poplar Bluff, as a bookkeeper and that he was in charge of all office procedures. He also said a woman bookkeeper was hired.

Singleton, who is said to have been vice president of the brokerage firm, and Stokely are charged jointly in a U.S. grand jury indictment. It is alleged they sold stock to a number of purchasers, mailed confirmation slips of the purchase in order to receive the customers' money, but never produced the stock nor returned the money.

Singleton has entered a plea of guilty to the charges in Federal Court in St. Louis. He is awaiting sentencing.

From the stand, Stokely reiterated several times he knew nothing of bookkeeping, could not understand it and had never had physical possession of the company books.

He told the court he put $10,000 more into the business than he took out in the last year of its operation in an attempt to solve its financial problems.

NO RECORD

The defendant said the records would show this, but such a record has never been produced in court.

Stokely was reprimanded by Judge Harper several times for volunteering information not sought by his attorney, Mr. Steck.

The defendant testified the brokerage firm principally dealt in life insurance stock in Missouri, but the bottom dropped out of this market in the fall of 1966 and some 2,000 customers the firm had were no longer buying customers.

He stated the office was closed in the spring of 1967, it earlier being established that this was after the charter to do business in Missouri was revoked by the Secretary of State's office after the company got into financial trouble.

The defendant said he first learned of the revocation of the firm's charter only after the business closed. But, upon cross-examination, admitted he continued to sell stock knowing the company was in financial difficulty.

In answer to questions of the government's attorney, he said although he "knew nothing of bookkeeping," he could understand a sheet which showed one column of what he took out of the business and another column showing the amount he put into it.

But throughout testimony, it was alleged this sheet - Mr. Stokely's ledger sheet - is missing from the records.

Weber Gilmore, a Sikeston lawyer who previously withdrew from the case as a defense attorney, was placed on the stand by Mr. Steck.

He attempted to tell the court he had seen the "missing ledger sheet" on Stokely's account and what it contained, but the court ruled the sheet itself would have to be produced.

1-In Memoriam

In Memoriam
I write in memory of Hardy Wilson Duke of Ullin, Ill., who passed away May 18, 1969. Born and raised on the farm, he was a country boy at heart all his life. His was a country home until the last. A quiet house, sheltered by trees and surrounded by field and meadow. The sound of birds singing, and the buzzing of the bees, were music to his soul.

Though he no longer tilled the soil, he loved the farm and all that it stood for. Springtime for planting, and autumn for the reaping of the harvest, for it was there he could see the fruit of his labors. The barn still stands, a reminder of bygone days, when the cribs were filled to overflowing. The blossom on the cotton and the silk on the corn, were more beautiful than the florists' greenhouse.

Inside the home was comfort, cleanliness and thriftiness. The well-worn Bible turned by fingers now stilled, and blurred with tears of eyes now closed, was the guide of his life. He had reached the evening of life, and had grown rich in the faith. Kindness was a way of life with him. Never too busy to share a burden, or listen to a problem, he was a blessing to many. His love for children was evident, as he could never pass up the opportunity to hold a baby, or say a word to a little one. He possessed great understanding as a parent and as a friend. To him "children were an heritage of the Lord" and he was a firm believer in "train up a child in the way he should go, and when he old he will not depart from it." He also believed that "except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." Never ashamed of the gospel of Christ, he was a blessing to his pastor and fellow members of Maple Grove Baptist Church. The house of God was precious to him, and I believe Psalm 27:4 would have been a favorite verse of his. "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold in his temple." Surely the Master greeted him with these words, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Inasmuch as ye have done all unto me, I will do likewise unto you. Enter ye in at the door, for ye have labored well." He is gone but not forgotten. Never shall his memory fade; Loving hearts will always linger 'Round the grave where he is laid. By Mrs. Esther M. Cummins 1740 Mentor Ave. Painesville, Ohio

City of Sikeston
Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the general fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1969, and the related statement of revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston at April 30, 1969, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

50 years ago
July 10, 1919
Little Emily Blanton entertained a few of her friends with a picnic luncheon on her birthday Friday afternoon. Those invited were Lucille Baker, Ella Helen Smith, Margaret Baker, Willetta Rogers, Rebecca Baker and Elizabeth Taylor.

George Lee, a member of the 113th Co. 29th Division, arrived in this city Saturday morning. He served eight months in Metz when the Armistice was signed. He received his discharge on June 29th, the next day after Germany signed the peace terms.

Miss Burnice Tanner returned from St. Louis Thursday. Russell Miley and James Matthews left Sunday for the boys camp at Lake Geneva to spend a couple of weeks.

A postal card from Lyman Fox Monday advises his Sikeston friends that he enjoyed his trip to South America very much and that he is now spending the summer as life saver at Lakeville "in the Berkshires," Conn.

Albert Murphy, 53-year-old farmer of the Morley neighborhood and one of the largest men in Scott County, died last Sunday as a result of a broken artery in his head and was buried Monday afternoon in the McMullen cemetery. Murphy was six feet, nine inches tall and weighed more than 300 pounds.

KEEP WARM TO LIVE
LONDON (AP) — Up to 90,000 people a year die in Britain for lack of proper heating, according to medical expert Dr. Geoffrey Taylor.

Taylor's statistics show that in the six cold months of the years 1964-67 there was an average of 60,000 more deaths than in the six warm months.

Taylor suggested that people who live in warm houses live up to five years longer than those in cold, draughty houses.

Slot Machines Cause Trouble

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.
Max smoked a big cigar and wore an even bigger smile. And he had good reason. He operated a fancy plush restaurant in which he maintained a battery of "one-armed bandits."
The biggest bandit of them all, however, was Max. Catering to gullible customers, Max had the machines so rigged that no one could possibly win. In fact, by judiciously tampering with them he had reduced the odds against his losing to the absolute minimum; to wit; zero.

Thus, until he was arrested for violating an ordinance that made it a crime to keep gambling devices, Max smoked his big cigars and took in the coin of the realm with absolute confidence.
"I can't be convicted of violating that ordinance," insisted Max in court. "My machines aren't gambling devices. To be a gambling device, you've got to have winners and losers with an element of chance. With my machines, there's no element of chance whatsoever. I always win and my customers always lose."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Max of illegally keeping gambling devices?
This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the intention of the law was to repress the gambling propensity, the very propensity that Max's machines were designed to stimulate. And, concluded the judge, the fact that his customers couldn't win was no defense since there was nothing to stop them from hoping they might win.

the opportunity to see the different facilities used in current research. Lunch will be available at the Center. All persons interested in beef cattle feeding are invited to attend the event August 1.

Senator's Son Enjoys Summer Farmhand Job

BRULE, Neb. (AP) — Far from the hustle of Manhattan, the son of Sen. Jacob K. Javits is spending part of his summer vacation as a Nebraska farmhand and finding it "very rewarding doing an honest day's work."

"You know, all we New Yorkers know about Midwesterners is their politics. And that is usually conservative. But we don't know why," said the Joshua Javits, 19, a Yale University junior whose father is New York's senior Republican.

PRAYER: Lord God, grant senator, me insight into my duties this day that my faith may be Javits continued, "not as a strengthened through works that privileged spectator, but by express through me Thy love working and fitting in where I'm and compassion. In Jesus' name. Amen.

The work ranges from ranching and sheep raising to overseeing irrigated and dry land corn, beans, wheat and alfalfa. "Everybody talks about the land," he said. "But to me the sky here is just incredible. Back in New York we don't get to see much of it for the buildings."

"Social relations are so easy here—there is none of the gruffness of New York."

What does he think of farming?
"You have to be a little of everything," he said. "I even had to help Roger operate on a sheep, besides all the other things a farmer or rancher has to know."

"I can really appreciate the farmer's problems. It sure takes a lot more brains and perseverance than I thought."

Herbert Hoover

Jr. Dies at 65

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Herbert Hoover Jr., shunned publicity most of his life and when he died at age 65 Wednesday there were no press announcements of his passing.

The son of the 31st president of the United States served as the No. 2 man in the State Department from 1964 to 1967 under the late John Foster Dulles.

Hoover died in Huntington Community Hospital which said he had been hospitalized for about a week. Spokesman declined to name the illness or give the cause of death.

Hoover once said there were three ingredients that made life worth living for him—the outdoors, far away places and mining engineering.

Public office held no glamor for him and he avoided capitalizing on his father's name.

Marine's Last Letter

Indicates Belief He

Didn't Die in Vain

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) - Marine Pfc. Delbert "Duff" Brimmer had been in Vietnam about a month when his parents received this letter:

"I knew somehow when I left for Vietnam that I wouldn't be coming back, mom and dad. Don't grieve for me - instead grieve for these poor, depressed and undeveloped countries."

"Grieve also for the other nations of the world, for they do not realize they are slowly but surely destroying our world."

"Perhaps by giving my life to help end this war, I have given the world a little boost towards the goal of brotherly love."

"If I have, then I feel I have fulfilled my obligation to God, my country and the Corps - and most of all to my parents."

"What more can a man hope to do in life?"

The 20-year-old Brimmer was killed in action June 30. He will be buried in Ludington today.

Police said some streets at Hannibal, Mo., were flooded by the rampaging Mississippi River, but there were no reports of extensive damage.

A break in a temporary levee north of Cairo, Ill., has caused flooding of nearly 5,000 acres of soybeans in Alexander County.

The Mississippi has topped another temporary levee in Site, Genevieve County, Mo., putting 11,000 acres of corn, soybeans and wheat under water.

No relief is immediately in sight. The weather bureau says scattered rain is likely through tonight and the five day forecast indicates heavy rains are expected over the weekend.
